SIMON ARRESTED; ADmits KILLING EMMET CARROLL

Gangster, Taken to Police Station With His Wife, Says Slain Man Had Threatened "to Get" Him and Tells of Fight in Saloon.

TRIED TO AVOID HIM FOR LONG TIME

Witness to Quarrel Testifies That Simon Fired Fatal Bullet When Adversary Rushed at Him With an Open Knife.

Wesley ("Red") Simon, who killed Emmett Carroll Monday night in a saloon at Twenty-third and Locust streets, was arrested at 2 p. m. Thursday in his boarding house at 3023 Locust street. His wife, May Simon, was taken with him to the Laclede Avenue Police Station.

The police have been looking for Simon since the killing, witnesses having stated that he was Carroll's slayer. He readily admitted this after his arrest. Carroll was a former member of the "Bottoms Gang."

"Carroll had been threatening to get me," said "Red," "and I was trying to keep out of his way, not wanting trouble. Monday night I went to Tony Foley's saloon, and Carroll was there. When he saw me, he rushed at me with a knife, and I shot him in self defense."

The police information, that Carroll was shot by Simon, came in part from Cornelius Cody, who was arrested Wednesday, to be held as a witness for the coroner. The police picked up Cody while they were looking for Simon. Tony Foley and Leona Emerson, over whom Simon and Carroll had quarreled.

Cody admitted he was in the saloon when the shot was fired, and he said he saw Carroll draw a knife just before Simon fired on him.

He said he did not know what they had been quarreling about.

Cody was under a $500 common law bond, released by Martin Ward of Eleventh street and Cass avenue, and approved by Judge Clark. Cody is a shoemaker and lives at 2676 Laclede avenue.

Cody did not furnish any additional details when he appeared before Deputy Coroner Fath. He said Paul Foley, a younger brother of Tony Foley, former leader of the "Bottoms Gang," was tending bar for Tony when the shooting occurred and that Tony was not present.

The only persons in the saloon, he said, beside himself, were "Red" Simon, "Shorty" Ragan and Emmett Carroll. He said he did not hear the argument that led to the shooting, but he saw Carroll draw a knife and approach Simon. The latter then pulled out his revolver, Cody said, and fired one shot at Carroll.

Cody said he did not remain to see what transpired after that, but fled from the saloon.

The verdict in the case is still open. Deputy Fath was waiting for the police to bring in more witnesses.

GIRL SKATER BADLY CUT IN FALL AGAINST WINDOW

University City Marshal's Daughter Loses Balance in Jumping Pavement Depression.

Pearl Willmann, 14-year-old daughter of Marshal John F. Willmann of University City, and living at 624 Washington avenue, was severely cut when roller skating along Adelaide avenue, between Washington and Delmar avenues, Wednesday afternoon.

There is a steep incline running from Washington avenue to Delmar avenue, and Miss Willmann, leading four other girls on roller skates, was coasting down the granite sidewalk. Near Delmar avenue, in hopping over a depression in the pavement, she lost her balance and fell.

Miss Willmann struck a plate glass window in the store of the Fraser Grocery Co., 6702 Delmar avenue, and broke the glass. Her right hand was badly lacerated. Mrs. A. S. McFarlane of 4 Yale avenue lifted her into her auto and took her to the Frisco Hospital.

CHARLES FENSKY FILES HIS OWN DIVORCE SUIT

Attorney Charles Fensky, acting as his own lawyer, although his attorney of record is W. H. Douglas, appeared in the office of the Circuit Clerk Thursday and filed suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Jennie Fensky, who resides at 4453 Page avenue.

In the petition Fensky alleges his wife was intoxicated four or five times each week during the past eight years. They were married in Osgood County, Kan., Sept. 27, 1905, and separated March 2, this year, according to the petition. Fensky, who was a candidate for Circuit Attorney on the Republican ticket last fall, asks for the custody of his two sons, Charles Jr., 13 years old, and Edward A., 11.

ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP LANDS IN FRANCE AND IS SEIZED

Germans, Who Drop on Drill Grounds, Explain They Lost Way and Did Not Know They Crossed Frontier—Troops Block Crowd.

LUNEVILLE, France, April 3.—One of the great German Zeppelin air cruisers landed on French territory today, coming down on the military parade ground here at midday when a brigade of French riflemen was drilling.

It was seized by the French authorities.

Six German officers alighted from the gondola and explained to Brigadier-General Antide Leon Lescot, who galloped up, that the motor of the airship had developed a defect. The ranking German officer said they had departed from Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, at 6:30 o'clock this morning, and lost their way in the clouds. They did not know they had crossed the French frontier.

Such grounds of French people collected during the interrogation and the excitement grew so intense that the commandant found it necessary to call out a battalion of infantry to keep the inquisitive populace at a distance.

The news of the descent of the German military dirigible was telegraphed to the Minister of War at Paris and Eugene Etienne, the Minister of War, ordered it seized. At the same time he sent the chief aerostatic officer at Lunenburg to represent him at the inquiry which was at once instituted.

TRIAL OF SCHOOL BOARD IS CERTAIN BY JUDGE'S RULING

Declaring from the bench Thursday that members of the Board of Education were not greater than the State and had no power to construe the laws of the State to suit themselves, Judge Benjamin Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction overruled a motion to quash informations against members of the board charged with violation of the fire escape laws, and set April 12 as the date of their trial.

Judge Clark's opinion presented such a strong arraignment of the members of the Board of Education for defiance of the fire escape laws that E. M. Grossman, attorney for the board, in a statement to the Court practically conceded that the Judge's opinion meant conviction for the members.

The facts pertaining to the defiance of the law were against the board members, and asked that Judge Clark consent to try one member of the board on the charges, so that he might make a test case of it and appeal to the Supreme Court.

With Judge Clark's decision the last hope of the members of the board to escape trial on the information issued by Prosecuting Attorney Sidener was swept away. Judge Miller, also of the Court of Criminal Correction, previously had refused to quash the informations; the Court of Appeals had refused to issue a restraining order upon the Court of Criminal Correction to stop the trial and the Supreme Court had denied a writ of prohibition.

In a final effort to escape trial, the board members took a change of venue to Judge Clark's court and again presented a motion to quash the information.

After Judge Clark had overruled the motion to quash, Attorney Grossman asked for a severance, so that each of the 11 members of the board could be tried individually. This was denied by Judge Clark.

The 11 members charged with defiance of the fire escape laws are Harold H. Tittmann, Edward A. Rathel, C. W. Johnson, Robert Moore, E. J. O'Neill, Arthur F. Partridge, F. L. McGowan, Emil Simon, J. P. Harper, Herman Mauch and P. Stromberg. The information against Rhodes E. Cave was dismissed when he resigned from the board after being elected Circuit Judge.

Board Amenable to Law.

Judge Clark declared in his opinion that the motion to quash was based upon the theory that the Board of Education as a corporation could commit no wrong and was therefore not amenable to the law. He said the act of the Legislature creating the board was cited as a basis for this contention.

In holding that this contention was erroneous Judge Clark referred to section one of Article XI of the Constitution, which says that all political power is vested in and derived from the people, and that all government is founded on the will of the people and instituted for the good of the people.

"For the purpose then of cultivating the minds of the youth the Board of Education was created by an act of the Legislature," he said. "This act is mandatory in the main and while clothing the board with certain powers, does not even by intimation clothe that body with any greater power, in so far as the welfare of those whose guardians they become, than if they were acting as individuals."

He said that while the law provided that the board could sue and be sued only as a corporation, it will not be contended for one moment that this would mean that if there was a violation of the penal code by them as a body that they could not be proceeded against as individuals.

MRS. F. W. NOLKER DIES IN NEW YORK; ILL A SHORT TIME

Relatives Were Advised Only Day Before Death That Condition Was Serious

Objected to Gossip in St. Louis—Said to Have Spent $750,000 in 5 Years.

Mrs. Eleonora Nolker, dashing society widow, who was reputed to have spent $750,000 in St. Louis in five years, died at the Borchard Apartments, 220 West Ninety-eighth street, New York, Tuesday, and news of her death was learned by a few of her most intimate friends in St. Louis today.

Flood conditions, which interfered with the telegraph service, prevented members of Mrs. Nolker's family here from discovering the serious nature of her illness, and even after they received a message that she had died, they were led by telegrams received later to believe she was not dangerously ill.

Mrs. Peter O'Neill of 4507 Lindell boulevard, mother of Mrs. Nolker, less than a week ago received a letter from Dr. J. H. Richards of 34 West Eighty-third street, New York, saying that Mrs. Nolker was ill but there was no cause for alarm.

Confusing Telegrams Received.

Monday Mrs. O'Neill received a telegram from Dr. Richards that Mrs. Nolker's condition was serious and that she had asked that members of her family go to her at once. Because of Mrs. O'Neill's age and the difficulties of travel caused by flood conditions, she was advised not to go to New York unless a more urgent appeal came.

About 4 p. m. Tuesday a telegram saying that Mrs. Nolker was dead was delivered at the O'Neill home. At 5 p. m. there came a message saying her condition was not serious. At 5:30 p. m. the family was further reassured by a telegram saying Mrs. Nolker would recover. Thus reassured, the family believed the message telling of Mrs. Nolker's death had been a mistake and that it had been canceled by those received later. The error of this conclusion was not discovered until a friend of the family, who was in New York, called and found the message telling of Mrs. Nolker's improvement and the probability of recovery had been filed at New York several hours before the message telling of her death, but had been delivered in St. Louis after it.

The letter and telegrams were all signed by Dr. Richards. They said nothing as to the cause of Mrs. Nolker's illness.

She Inherited a Fortune.

Mrs. Nolker before her marriage to Frederick W. Nolker, son of a millionaire brewer, was Eleonora O'Neill. She inherited a large fortune from the estate of her father, Peter O'Neill, a St. Louis hotel owner, capitalist and real estate man.

At the home of her mother it was said that Mrs. Nolker's body would arrive in St. Louis during the day, accompanied by the 10-year-old adopted daughter, Marcelle.

Mrs. Nolker departed from St. Louis to live in New York six years ago. Before going away she was quoted as saying she was moving from St. Louis because there was too much gossip here.

As helms to her father's large fortune, she was a social and a figure in the younger social set even before her marriage to Nolker enhanced her financial power and influence.

Nolker Died Ten Years Ago.

Nolker's death in Florida 10 years ago left her one of the richest widows in St. Louis, while she still retained her beauty and her social position.

She lived at 440 Lindell boulevard, which was filled with art treasures. It was Mrs. Nolker's custom to buy things first and ask the price afterward. This home, in which she had gathered paintings, rugs, statuary and furniture from all parts of the world, was the scene of many gay gatherings.

On the night of July 3, 1904, Mrs. Nolker's automobile ran down and killed Ernest Shank of 5322 Goodfellow avenue as he was alighting from a street car at Easton and Arlington avenues. Mrs. Nolker's companion in the automobile when this accident occurred was Edwin A. Lemp, a member of a wealthy family of St. Louis brewers. Her chauffeur was driving the car. Mrs. Nolker suffered a nervous collapse after this accident.

Spent $750,000 in Five Years.

In March, after she moved to New York, Mrs. Nolker was sued by a Paris merchant for the balance on a bill of $500 for lace handkerchiefs. This suit, filed in St. Louis, revealed that Mrs. Nolker had been sued by many other merchants for bills of $500 for millinery, $4000 for dry goods, $3000 for dry goods and millinery, $150 for flowers and $118 for wine. It was said by attorneys, and published at that time, that Mrs. Nolker had spent $750,000 in five years.

On going to New York she sold Lindell boulevard home to William Landon for $50,000.

A Post-Dispatch reporter was told Thursday that the $50,000 which she received for her home represented the bulk of her capital when she went to New York and that in recent years members of her family here have been giving her an allowance.

NEGRESS CAUSES STIR AT MEETING OF SUFFRAGISTS

Takes Seat in Buckingham Session and Hotel Official Starts Up to Oust Her.

"LIKE FALLING IN LOVE"

Delegate Tells of Emotion Upon Hearing Suffragists Had Won State.

The color question, which has vastly embarrassed suffragists in other states, and which had not a little to do with the recent defeat of the suffrage amendment in the Missouri Legislature, came before the Mississippi Valley suffrage conference at the Buckingham Hotel in concrete form Thursday, when Mrs. Victoria Clay-Haley, a negress, walked in and sat down.

Mrs. Haley entered the parlor quietly, but she was soon noticed by the delegates and inquiring glances were exchanged. A young woman in charge of the distribution of literature went to her and gave her a handful of cards and pamphlets. Later another woman asked her name, and she gave it, and said she was a leader in club work among negro women. Her right to remain was not questioned, but her presence unquestionably lowered the buoyant spirit of the meeting.

To the only woman who questioned her, Mrs. Haley said she was not connected with the suffrage organization, but was interested in the movement, and had come to learn what she could regarding it.

The frustration among the delegates was mild compared with that in the administration office of the Buckingham Hotel, where the clerks, cashier and others learned of the presence of the negress. Manager T. J. Darcey was not in sight at the moment, and his subordinates began searching for him to lay the matter before him. Finally Darcey appeared and was informed of the situation.

He immediately announced to the clerks that he would see upstairs to have the negress leave, and he departed on his mission.

The delegates recalled that the women who walked from New York, Washington came near disbanding when a group of negroes joined them, carrying a banner, "Votes for Negro Women." They recalled, too, that the chief argument against the suffrage movement in the Legislature was that it would give the ballot to negroes.

Three-Day Gathering.

Thursday was the second day of the three-day gathering. Nineteen states are represented. Mr. Ann Martin of Reno, Nev., one of the speakers, said that in the mining regions, men were a very unstable element of the citizenship, and that 14 men elected to the Legislature left Nevada before their terms were to begin. She told of the difficulty of carrying on the suffrage propaganda in a State larger than England, Scotland and Wales, with only 23,000 voters.

Mrs. Jeannette O. Ferris told of a suffragist's emotions in the amount of victory, in these words:

"I was carrying on like a man in love, being converted and coming into a fortune all at one time."

Mrs. Ferris, who is an ordained minister of the Gospel, is from Michigan, and the description which she gave represented her own experience. Last year after last year's election it appeared that suffrage had carried that State. Later returns changed the apparent victory into defeat. Mrs. Ferris said suffrage was fraudulently counted out. Another election on the same question will be held in Michigan this year, she said.

"If we are defeated this time," she declared, "it will be by the vicious interests."

Favors Pay for Workers.

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Woman's Suffrage Association, said she was paid for her work, and that women should be paid for campaigning, just as men are. She compared the unpaid woman campaigner to the volunteer nurse in a household, who might just as well be a trained nurse making a good salary.

Mrs. Maude Wood Park of Boston gave practical suggestions about raising money at suffrage meetings.

"Don't thank people for contributing," she said. "Make them feel that it is an honor to be permitted to help. Have an eloquent speaker just before the collection, to hold your crowd and to get them enthused."

Oliver W. Stewart of Chicago, who wrote the constitution for the first organization of the Men's League for the Work of the World, said that men should lead in the suffrage movement, but that it is difficult to get those who have power to surrender it or to share it with others.

He said the Men's League, whose members have vowed not to effectively influence public officials and candidates. The Men's League, he said, is an answer to the statement that only discontented women want suffrage. Even if this were true, he said, it would prove nothing. "One discontented woman crying out for influence is the voice of God," he declared.

During the speech making it was announced that the expenses of the convention amounted to $48.33 and that a collection would be taken up. Within five minutes the delegates had subscribed $115. It was then decided that the surplus should be placed in the treasury to pay the expenses of the next conference.

T. Q. SEABROOKE, COMEDIAN, DEAD OF ALCOHOLISM

Comic Opera Star Who Wed in St. Louis Was Taken From Chicago Fire Escape, Found Lifeless Later.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Thomas Q. Seabrooke, formerly one of the best-known comedians on the music comedy stage, was found dead in his room at the Astor Hotel, North Clark street, near Randolph street, today. His death was reported to the coroner as due to delirium tremens.

Seabrooke, who was 53 years of age, was married only a short time ago in St. Louis. His bride left two weeks ago to accept an engagement in New York. It was said she is now in Northern Michigan with a one-night stand company.

That Seabrooke had been drinking heavily for the last two weeks was well known to his friends, but none thought that his excesses would develop such a serious form.

Seabrooke was found by some of his friends trying to climb up the fire escape of the hotel early today. They got him back into his room and into bed, and thought he would be all right after a good sleep.

Dr. W. R. Creely and Dr. A. Meyer were called in when the body was found. They reported that death was due to alcoholism.

Seabrooke's greatest success was in "The Isle of Champagne," which he first played in 1892 and for several years in many comic operas and lately has appeared in vaudeville.

Seabrooke last appeared in St. Louis in a vaudeville sketch at the Hippodrome. On Sunday, March 2, the day following the close of his engagement, he married Miss Mary Martha Shepard, whose mother, Mrs. George W. Quinn, also was appearing at the Hippodrome.

It was announced at the time that Seabrooke intended to "double" with his mother-in-law in a vaudeville act. Mr. and Mrs. Seabrooke went to Chicago from St. Louis. Seabrooke, when obtaining a marriage license, gave his age as 53. His bride said she was 19.

WOUND IN PARIS DUEL

Fights Fiercely With Sword Against French Deputy—Both Will Survive.

PARIS, April 3.—Both combatants were wounded in a fierce sword duel fought today between Georges Berthoulet, managing director of La Librete, and Pascal Ceccaldi, a prominent member of the Chamber of Deputies.

Their onslaught was very violent, and resulted in Berthoulet's receiving a thrust in his right breast and Ceccaldi one in the right shoulder. The seconds then intervened and stopped the combat. Neither of the wounds is likely to prove fatal.

CARDINALS' GAME IS OFF

At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was announced that the Cardinals' game at the St. Louis Cardinals' park that was scheduled today, was called off on account of rain. It was not announced when the postponed contest would be played.

PARIS, April 3.—The four automobile bandits confined in the prison de La Santé, under sentence of death on the guillotine, were searched by wardens today and were found to contain an investigation of sufficient poison to kill several persons.

MRS. PANKHURST SENTENCED TO 3 YEARS IN PRISON

English Suffragist Leader Found Guilty of Inciting Persons to Commit Damage in Firing Lloyd-George's Country Home, With a Bomb.

'MARCH ON! MARCH ON!' WOMEN SING IN COURT

Prisoner Makes Dramatic Speech, Tells Judge She Will Refuse to Eat, and Leave Cell Dead or Alive as Early as Possible.

LONDON, April 3.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the militant suffragettes, today was found guilty and sentenced to three years' penal servitude at the Old Bailey Sessions, on the charge of inciting persons to commit damage.

Mrs. Pankhurst was tried in connection with the firing of the country house of Lloyd-George, at Walton Heath, with a bomb. She was not charged with having been present when the house was destroyed. The main evidence against her was a speech in which she said she took responsibility for the act.

The trial had lasted two days. The jury added to its verdict a strong recommendation for mercy, and when the Judge pronounced the heavy sentence of three years the crowd of women in the courtroom rose in angry protest.

Sympathizers Cheer Her.

As Mrs. Pankhurst stood up in the prisoner's enclosure, her sympathizers cheered wildly and then filed out of the court singing "March On! March On!" to the tune of the "Marseilles."

Mrs. Pankhurst's closing address to the jury lasted 50 minutes. She frequently wept, and her long and matter before the Court, she censured her.

Mrs. Pankhurst denied any malicious intention. "Neither I or the other militant suffragettes are wicked or malicious," she said. "Women are tried by their peers, and these trials are an example of what women are suffering in order to obtain their rights. Personally, I have had to surrender a large part of my income in order to be free to participate in the suffrage movement."

Speaks With Feeling.

Speaking with much feeling, Mrs. Pankhurst fiercely criticized man-made laws, and said that the divorce law alone was sufficient to justify a revolution by women. In passionate tones she declared:

"Whatever may be my sentence, I will not submit. From the very moment I leave the court, I will refuse to eat. I will come out of prison dead or alive at the earliest possible moment."

Justice Lush, in summing up, told the jury that Mrs. Pankhurst's speeches were an admission that she had incited to the perpetration of illegal acts. Mrs. Pankhurst almost broke down when the jury pronounced its verdict. Leaning over the front of the prisoner's enclosure, she said: "It is impossible to find a different verdict. I want to say to you and to the jury, that it is your duty as private citizens to do what you can to put an end to this state of affairs."

"Deliberately Broke Law."

She then repeated her determination to end her sentence as soon as possible, saying:

"I don't want to commit suicide. Life is very dear to me. But I will not let the women of this country be disfranchised. I want to live until that has been done. I will take the desperate remedy other women have taken, and I will keep it up as long as I have an ounce of strength."

"I deliberately broke the law, not hysterically and not emotionally, but for a set and serious purpose. I honestly believe this is the only way."

"Movement Will Go On."

"This movement will go on whether I live or die. These women will not until women have obtained the common rights of citizenship throughout the civilized world."

Justice Lush said:

"I must pass a severe sentence on you, if you would only realize the wrong you are doing, and use your influence in the right direction. I should be the first to use my best endeavors to secure a mitigation of your sentence. I cannot, and I will not regard your crime as trivial. It is a most serious one."

"MEN ARE SORE"
SAYS SUFFRAGIST

Mrs. David N. O'Neill Expresses Sorrow Mrs. Pankhurst Got Into Such a Situation.

Delegates to the Mississippi Valley Suffrage Conference, in session at the Buckingham Hotel, discussed among themselves Thursday morning the sentencing of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, English suffragette leader, to prison. Nothing was said from the platform.

ARGUMENT BEGUN IN COUDREY AND GARDNER TRIAL

Assistant District Attorney Hall Opens and Will Close for the Government.

JURY TO GET CASE TODAY

Prosecutor Says "Frittering Away of Money" Began Before Incorporation.

Assistant District Attorney Hall
today began the Government's argument to the jury in the United States District Court in the prosecution of former Congressman Harry M. Coudrey and Harry B. Gardner, accused of using the mails to defraud. The evidence was delivered Wednesday afternoon and the case was expected to go to the jury about 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Hall declared the whole case hinged on the question of whether Gardner and Coudrey intended to mislead the mails in promotion of the Continental Life Assurance Co. of America and the International Fire Insurance Co. of America.
He said he believed the Government had established that they used the mails to furnish misleading information about the companies.

Assault Incorporation.
He assailed the incorporation of the Continental Company, arguing that while the articles of incorporation appeared regular on the face of them, many of the persons who signed them did not intend to carry on an insurance business, did not subscribe for stock and did not pay for stock. He declared the testimony had shown only three of the incorporators actually subscribed for stock and that the remaining 999 shareholders were fictitious. He reminded the jury that persons whose names were signed to the articles had testified that they signed to accommodate the late F. M. Estes, who drew up the papers, and that they did not intend to engage in insurance business.

The evidence also has shown, Hall said, that the directors met March 31, 1909, before the incorporation articles were issued, and that seven or eight of the incorporators had not been notified either of this meeting or of the next one, Oct. 3, 1909, when the minutes of the first meeting were approved.
At the first meeting it was voted, Hall continued, to give 24 per cent of the proceeds of stock sales to Gardner as agent, and that this meant a sum of $40,000. Pointing his finger dramatically, he said: "That was the money that was frittered away."

Nothing Paid for Stock.
The minutes of the second directors' meeting showed that some of the original incorporators had resigned although the incorporators had told on the stand that they had not resigned, said Hall.
The attorney also declared the records showed 1000 shares of stock had been issued to Gardner and another 1000 to his wife, for which not a dollar was paid.

He declared also that one of the early checks on the company's funds for $44,18 had gone to this Guyton and Trust Co. to pay off a mortgage on Gardner's house, and that part of other money had gone toward payments for an automobile Gardner had bought.
Hall argued that the promoters had divided Missouri into 30 districts with a banker-trustee in each, and had told these trustees that all the funds of the companies would be deposited in their institutions. In spite of this, he said, Coudrey had tried to make a similar arrangement with Illinois bankers and that the attorneys had tried to introduce the scheme in Kansas.

Before Hall began his speech it was announced the Government would have two hours for argument and the defense two and a half. Hall split his time so as to open and close.
C. Porter Johnson and Harry Blodgett arranged to present argument on behalf of Gardner and Walter B.
Douglas on behalf of Coudrey.

INQUIRY BEING MADE INTO ROOSEVELT'S TEMPERANCE

Defendant in Libel Suit Brought by Former President Gets Testimony as to His Liquor Habit.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Did Theodore Roosevelt, while President, drink intem-perately? This question came before an examiner in this city who is assisting in preparing the record in the case of Theodore Roosevelt against A. W. Newitt, editor of the Iron Ore Age of Ishpeming, Mich.

Editor Newitt, during the last campaign, made charges in his paper that Roosevelt had indulged too frequently in "potatoes." The Colonel sued for libel, characterizing the story as a malicious hoax. He employed James H. Founds, a noted lawyer of Detroit, to take charge of his case. The newspaper editor retained Oscar Andrews, a lawyer of Cleveland.

Mrs. Founds and Andrews have been in Washington for the last two days hearing the testimony of witnesses subscribed in behalf of Col. Roosevelt. Admiral Dewey, Gifford Pinchot and other warm friends of Col. Roosevelt, have appeared before the examiner as "character witnesses." The proceedings carried forward today, however, were being kept secret by agreement. The case will be heard before Judge Flann-gan in Michigan in May.

Friend Visitor Killed.

land and made an error of judgment in landing. The machine tilted and the aviator was thrown out.

EAST ST. LOUIS TO TAKE $22,600 FOR $500,000 CLAIMS

Council Arranges Compromise on Fees Withheld by 11 of City's Treasurers.

TWO OF OFFICIALS DEAD

Corporation Counsel Explains Collection of Greater Sum Would Be Unlikely.

A compromise for $22,600 of suits aggregating $500,000 against former treasurers of East St. Louis was authorized Wednesday night by the East St. Louis City Council at a special meeting. The suits were based on the contention of the city that for many years treasurers had illegally retained as fees, 2 per cent of the taxes collected by them,
in addition to the salary allowed by law.

The offices of township collector and city treasurer of East St. Louis are combined. The official receives $100 a year as township collector and $1500 annually as city treasurer. A few months ago the salary was increased by the Council to $4000, with a proviso that the treasurer withhold no more fees.

The salary of the Mayor was increased by the City Council at the same time to $5000 a year from $3000.
The incoming executive, John M.
Chamberlain, will therefore draw the same amount of salary as is paid to the Mayor of St. Louis.

Compromise Is Explained.
John L. Flannigan, corporation counsel of East St. Louis, who was authorized to compromise the suits, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday that a settlement was that two of the 11 treasurers sued are dead, and their widows would probably have to sacrifice their homes to pay a judgment, if one was obtained by the city. He said that material evidence was lacking in some cases, and that the records presented to 1896 were destroyed in the cyclone of that year which tore down the city hall.

A large portion of the amount sued for was to recover interest alleged to have been collected by the treasurers on taxes collected and placed in banks for temporary safe keeping. The city states in the suits that the money should have been either kept in the vaults in the city hall, or the interest accruing should have been turned into the city treasury.

A separate suit was filed for each year the treasurers served, dating back to 1884. The 10 former treasurers who were sued, in addition to the present official, were: John Neimel, C. J. Gooden, F.
J. Kurris, Frank Holten, Martin Martell, Philip Wolff, Gustav Horn, Henry Roewe, Louis Edlich and G. H. Kemper. Neimel and Kemper have died since leaving the office.

The former treasurers and the heirs of those who died have agreed to a compromise, according to Flannigan.
The suits will be called in court and judgments entered for the amounts sued for, with a stipulation that the compromise within 30 days will operate as a payment in full.

E. Fred Gerold, the present treasurer, is named in the suits and has agreed to a compromise for $1500 in full payment of the fees he has collected, following the custom of former treasurers.

about Mrs. Pankhurst's conviction.
Miss Marion Walters of Chicago, a delegate, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "The men are getting pretty shaky. They're pretty shaky. I don't approve of militant methods, but the conditions over there are so different from ours that it would be difficult to discuss the subject from the viewpoint of people in the United States."

"However, if Mrs. Pankhurst broke the law, I think she should be treated the same as a man would be. The women want equal rights and they ought to accept equal responsibilities."

"If they were to give the same sentence to a man for doing or saying what Mrs. Pankhurst did or said, I think it perfectly proper to give the same sentence to a woman. Yet I sympathize with Mrs. Pankhurst."

Mrs. David N. O'Neill, president of the Equal Suffrage League of St. Louis, said she was horrified at the news.
"I am very sorry," said Mrs. O'Neill,
"that Mrs. Pankhurst has got herself into such a situation. I understand she accepted the responsibility for destroying the Lloyd-George house. I will say nothing about the justice or injustice of her sentence."

Miss Alice Henry of Chicago, editor of Labor and Life, a trade union periodical, characterized the news as "terrible." She declared that in her opinion, Mrs. Pankhurst will not be in prison more than three weeks.

"She will go on a hunger strike and starve to death," said Miss Henry, "unless they let her out."

Looks Anything But Militant. said Mrs. Grace Winbur Trout of Chicago, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association. Mrs. Trout has met both Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter,
"Mrs. Pankhurst," she continued, "looks anything but militant. Sylvia, her daughter, is not nearly so dainty. She looks more of the militant type. Maybe that is due to the fact that Sylvia is an artist."

"Over there the conditions are so different from ours that these militant methods have evolved. The English woman first tried everything decent, but made no headway. I don't approve of the methods of the militants, but in England the situation is very aggravated.
The women have no rights. They haven't anything like the same privileges as we have in this country. I sympathize with Mrs. Pankhurst."

U. S. TO RECOGNIZE CHINESE REPUBLIC, NOTIFIES POWERS

Secretary Bryan Proposes That All Other Nations Join in Like Action April 8.

ASSEMBLY MEETS THEN

Action May Influence China to Refuse Terms of Proposed European Loan.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary
Bryan has formally notified all diplomatic representatives here of the intention of the United States to recognize the new Chinese republic on April 8, the meeting day of the Assembly, and has formally proposed that all other governments recognize the new republic in concert on that day.

Secretary Bryan's note was delivered to some of the foreign diplomats yesterday and to the remainder of the corps today. Each was enjoined to secrecy that a formal announcement might be made from the White House first. President Wilson's statement is expected at any time.

Secretary Bryan's note was brief and in substance like that of the State Department. "The President requests me to notify you and your governments through you of the intention of the United States to recognize the new Republic of China on April 8."

The remainder of the note is a brief suggestion that all other nations do likewise on that day.

Diplomats here regard the proposal for a concerted recognition as an action that will clear away any soreness that may have been created by what was called a breach of diplomacy recently when the White House announcement regarding the six-power loan was published here before the foreign governments interested had been notified.

The United States is the first nation to announce an intention to recognize the new republic. In diplomatic circles there is speculation as to how the action will be received by the five powers which, with the United States, were to participate in the Chinese loan—Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Japan.

It is believed in some quarters that the action of the United States will influence China to refuse the terms of the loan as proposed and to seek money in this country.

MOVE TO AID AMERICAN GIRL IN ENGLISH PRISON

Mother's Demand That Own Doctor Examine Zelle Emerson, Suffragette, Served on Authorities.

LONDON, April 2.—A letter from Mrs.
Emerson of Detroit, Mich., was handed by Joseph Wadsworth, a Liberal member of Parliament, to Reginald McKenna, the British Home Secretary, today.

It demanded permission for Mrs. Emerson's physician to examine her daughter, Miss Zelle Emerson, the militant suffragette, who is said to be suffering from the forcible feeding employed by the officials since she started her hunger strike in Holloway jail.

The United States embassy, according to Mrs. Emerson, promised in event of failure of Secretary McKenna to comply with her request to place the facts before the British Foreign Office.

A letter from a prisoner confined in the next cell to Miss Emerson states that the release of Miss Emerson within the next few days is necessary to save her reason, and perhaps her life. The letter also says that by giving her neighbor part of her food she started her hunger strike 14 days before the prison doctors discovered the fact.

TUBERCULOSIS' BIG TAX

SEDALIA, Mo., April 2.—Tuberculosis costs Missouri $400,000 a year, Dr. Walter Miller, secretary of the Missouri Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis, said in an address here last night. He said the cost of the disease in the State is equivalent to a tax of $2.39 for each $100 of its assessed value and three times as much as it costs to support the public schools of the State.

Dr. Miller said Missouri would be justified in bonding itself at 4 per cent for more than one-half of its total taxable wealth if tuberculosis might thereby be eradicated.

A Valuable Suggestion IMPORTANT TO EVERYONE

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention, as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

PROF. TAFT BEGINS BY ATTENDING CHAPEL

Talks About Lectures With Faculty; Is Househunting; Joins Golf Club.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 2.—Prof.
William Howard Taft's first day as a member of the Yale faculty was a light
one. He began his duties in the morning by attending college chapel. He rose early and was seated in the body of Old Staircase at 8:30 o'clock, when the exercises began. He was warmly greeted as he walked back to his hotel from chapel.
Later Prof. Taft met the faculty body and discussed the lectures which he will begin in about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Taft spent most of the day in their suite at the hotel. They will go house hunting soon again, as they have yet to select their permanent home.

Prof. Taft has been made an active member of the New Haven Country Club and expects to spend many afternoons this spring going over the links.

WILSON TO ASK FAIR PAY FOR U. S. AMBASSADORS

Will Appeal to Congress to Make It Possible for Poor Man to Be a Diplomat.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Wilson is going to ask Congress to provide enough money for the salary and maintenance of United States Ambassadors to foreign countries to make it possible for men of moderate means to accept these positions without fear of not being able to finance themselves. The increased pay may come in the form of houses to live in or salaries. William F. McCombs wants to go to Paris as Ambassador. President Wilson is anxious for him to go. McCombs is worth about $150,000. He believes that it would cost him over and above his salary of $17,500 about $50,000 or $55,000 a year to live. His accumulations would disappear in four years. He would return here a poor man and have to begin over again.

That tells the story of the refusal of McCombs several different times of the offer of the French post.

White House officials said today that McCombs can be Ambassador to France if he wants to. It is up to him.

SUFFRAGIST TESTIFIES FOR MRS. ANDERSON

Mrs. Daniel W. Knefler Appears
After Search for Her
Was Started.

Mrs. Daniel W. Knefler, Missouri State campaign manager for the equal suffrage movement, appeared in Judge McQuinn's court Thursday morning while a court officer was looking for her to serve an attachment issued at the instance of Attorney Hugh D. McCorkle, counsel for Attorney Charles J. Anderson in his suit for divorce.

Mrs. Knefler, who was summoned as a witness, explained to the court that she understood she would not be wanted until the afternoon. Judge McQuinn ruled that McCorkle had acted too hastily in having the attachment issued and he charged the costs against the lawyer.

Mrs. Knefler testified that she met Mrs. Edna Anderson, the defendant, at a suffrage meeting. When they were introduced Mrs. Knefler said: "I am glad to meet you, because I know Mrs. Anderson," she testified. Mrs. Anderson, she said, replied: "Yes, a great many women know my husband." The witness said Mrs. Anderson gave her impression of being a very unimpressive woman.

AUTO SKIDS, TURNS OVER, HURT MEN DESERT IT

Leave Car on Clayton Road and Are Brought Into City by Another Machine.

A wine-colored five-passenger automobile containing four men skidded down an embankment Thursday night on the Clayton road half a mile west of the North and South road, turned over and righted itself, throwing out the occupants. The passengers were injured, according to a man who later passed the scene of the wreck and were brought to St. Louis in another auto.

The car bore a State license tag No. 1914, the man said. The names of the occupants of the auto were not learned by the County authorities. An emergency car of a St. Louis auto company was sent out early Thursday and the disabled auto was brought to St. Louis.

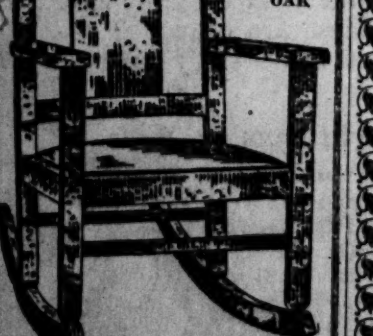

The records show that license No. 1914 was taken out by J. O. Stubbs, a chauffeur, of 218 Olive street, St. Louis. Stubbs could not be found at that address Thursday.

Pennsylvania Lines
Will operate, beginning Thursday, April 4, three trains daily to Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Richmond, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and New York. Inquire for particulars at city ticket office, 19th and Olive sts. Telephone: Bell, Main 3209; Kinloch, Central 4616.

Quail Society's New Quarters.
The Quail Society, which Thursday evening will occupy its new quarters, a large, well-lighted hall on the second floor of the Central Library Building. The society meets on Thursday evening each week from 8 to 10 o'clock. There are no initiation fees or dues. Teachers are always on hand.

$4 Ready Trimmed Hats $5 Ready Trimmed Hats

Above mentioned items ought to be of interest to those who want a stylish hat for about half price. You may think it strange to make such sweeping reductions at this time of year, but we have good reasons for making this offer. In the first place, we were lucky in buying about 300 sample hats at far below their original values, and in the second place our unprecedented large business during, and since Easter week left us on hand another 200 hats, which must be disposed of quickly, hence this price for one day only.

WIFE DIES AFTER BEING RECONCILED WITH F. A. HEINZE

She Sends for Him, Saying She Still Loves Him, and He Goes to Her.

GOT DIVORCE LAST YEAR

She Asked That Decree Be Set Aside for Sake of One-Year-Old Baby.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 2.—Mrs. Bernice Henderson Heinze, who obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce last December at Newburg from Fritz Augustus Heinze, Montana copper king and New York banker, and spectacular financier, died yesterday afternoon in her apartment in the Dorilton, Seventy-first street and Broadway, with her hand clasped in that of her former husband, to whom she had become reconciled on the last day of her life.

Heinze went to the apartment at Mrs. Heinze's request. Mrs. Heinze was suffering from nephritis. Her physician told her Tuesday that her condition was grave. Yesterday her condition became worse and she asked to see Heinze.

"I still love him," she said, "and I want to be reconciled."

Thought of Her Baby.
Heinze was notified of the request and was told she had but a few hours to live. He drove to the Dorilton in his automobile about noon. When he entered the bedroom the doctors and nurses withdrew for a time. Heinze sat at his former wife's bedside and the reconciliation followed. Mrs. Heinze had said she wanted to bring it about for the sake of the child, Fritz Augustus Heinze Jr., one year old.

Her lawyer, Benjamin F. Spellman, was in the room when she pleaded that Heinze be sent to her. She told him she wanted the divorce set aside. He comforted her with the promise that he would do all in his power to have the decree annulled.

Mrs. Heinze was Bernice Golden and was an actress. She lived in Brooklyn, Heinze's native city. Her first marriage was to Charles A. Henderson, a wealthy broker, who had an apartment at the Plaza. In 1906 she obtained a divorce with alimony of $100 a week.

As Bernice Golden she played the dastardly emotional part of "The Vampire" in Robert Hilliard's production of "A Fool There Was," based upon Kipling's noted poem.

Golden and Heinze were married Aug. 21, 1910, having met while abroad shortly before. The bride's mother attended the wedding. When the engagement was announced, work in advance of the marriage, a Nemesis of the copper king came into the limelight and made vigorous protests against the approaching nuptials. She was Mrs. Lillian Hobart French, "the handsome blonde of Butte."

Mrs. French Protested.
Heinze had known Mrs. French in the Montana town. He said his acquaintance with her had been slight. Mrs. French, on the other hand, declared she regarded herself as his wife. At that time she occupied apartments in the Imperial Arms in New York, and when she heard of Heinze's intention to marry the actress divorcee, she took to her bed. To reporters she declared she had always expected Heinze to make her his wife. They had met years ago in Montana, she said, about the time she obtained a divorce from French, and had gone everywhere together.

Mrs. French had figured a year before as an associate of Ann O'Della Dine de Bar, the Mahan, aristocrat of wide notoriety. Heinze, about that time, was under indictment by a Federal grand jury on the charge of misappropriating more than $2,000,000 of the funds of the Mercantile National Bank of New York, of which he had been president since Bar and Mrs. French had indulged many "psychic vibrations" in an effort to keep the indicted banker out of jail.

"I regard myself as Mrs. Heinze No. 2," said Mrs. French in her bed at the Imperial Arms, "and I've called myself Mrs. French long enough. Hereafter I'm going to call myself Mrs. Heinze."

She said she had no marriage certificate, but she had a contract with Heinze, which was in a safe deposit box. She said it was "not exactly a marriage contract," however.

After Heinze married the actress Mrs. French still pursued him. She called herself his "occult wife." Heinze's first wedding present was a summons and complaint in a suit for $25,000 by Mrs. French. When she was told that Heinze and Miss Golden were man and wife she said:

"Well, I wish him joy, but I am not through with him. I regard myself as his wife. I may marry 10 times prior to the next reincarnation, but I shall, in the last analysis, wed him and become, in the fullest sense of the term, Mrs. Fritz Augustus Heinze."

Woman Gave Out Letters.
After much legal wrangling and expense the indictment against Heinze finally was reversed, but trouble began between him and his wife. Also, Mrs. French, in retaliation for his statement that he had known her only slightly, gave out letters which said Heinze had written her, beginning "My Dear Little Girl," "Dear Puss," and in one instance, "My Dear Little Dick." Mrs. French also told about a woman known as "the red-haired Irish of Standard Oil," who, she said, had obtained all his copper stock secrets from Heinze, giving him the opportunity of bringing on the smash that cost him millions. Mrs. Heinze filed suit for divorce last fall, the chief witness being a limousine porter, who testified that one day a woman had occupied a stateroom on one of the porter's trips. Alimony of $1000 a month was granted to Mrs. Heinze.

The career of Heinze began when, as a mining engineer graduate of Columbia University, he went to Butte, Mont., and began work underground at $5 a day. In a few years he had made millions in copper, had fought William A. Clark and Marcus Daly, bought newspapers to aid his interest, and returned to New York, still a young man—he is only 43 now—to try his hand in Wall street, where he was not a success. He took up with Charles W. Morse, John W. Gates and speculators of that sort.

MOTTO TOUCHES BURGLAR

"In God We Trust" on Child's Tin Bank Saves $30.

CLIBORNIA, Pa., April 2.—A child's bank with "In God We Trust," printed across the top, and containing $30 in dimes, was left untouched by a burglar who ransacked the home of Harry L. Kramer last night. Searching and finding little, the marauder unearthed the little bank, which belongs to Kramer's 10-year-old daughter.

The burglar evidently decided he would leave the house empty-handed, rather than take the child's savings. Under the inscription "In God We Trust," he scribbled, "So did I, once," and departed.

KANSANS WANT AN EARLY VOTE ON THE COMMISSION FORM

TOPEKA, Kan., April 2.—Gov. Hodges, who sent a message to the Legislature recommending commission government for Kansas, with the expectation of getting the plan adopted in about four years says he finds that the people of the State were waiting for just that thing, and the probability of a special session of the Legislature to submit the question at the next election is almost a certainty already.

Hundreds of letters have come to the Governor from every part of the State, commending his idea and declaring that the people are ready right now to vote on the proposition.

The Governor, however, believes that there is no need for haste and the more discussion there is, and the greater the dissemination of facts, the more certain it is that the plan will be adopted when it is submitted.

The Governor also desires it to be well settled in the minds of the people just how the commission should be composed, whether of the various state officers, such as the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Attorney-General, Secretary of State and others, or whether there should be a commission independent of the heads of the state departments. The sentiment, so far, appears to favor the plan of having each commissioner at the head of a state department.

For the purpose of fusing the various ideas into a plan that will satisfy everyone, a state conference to discuss the question will be held in Topeka next fall, after which, it is expected, the Governor will call the Legislature together to adopt the resolution to submit the question to the voters at the election in 1914.

PASTOR'S SHARP TONGUE
CUT PEWS TOO DEEP

Methodist Parson Holds That Pulpit Is the Birthplace of Truth.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., April 2.—The Rev. John Zetter ended a stormy year as pastor of the First Methodist Church of this place last evening, when the New York East Conference at New Haven sent him to St. Paul's, Hartford.

Pulpit references to poker joints in the business blocks of the city and the reputation of a turkey sent to the parsonage—the pastor returning it to the giver with the suggestion that the latter man divide it among his "half-paid employees"—have not tended to promote love between Zetter and his flock.

The feeling was carried into the conference, where the local delegates wished to see Zetter disciplined. But he came out on top, for, although he has been shifted, he has gained what is generally conceded to be a much better pastorate.

The Rev. Mr. Zetter "got in bad" when he made allusions from the pulpit to the "godless aristocracy" of the city and church. Also some of the quarterly conferences during the last year saw spirited brushes, in which even the presiding elder was involved. He counseled Mr. Zetter to be more diplomatic.

The pastor retorted that he held the pulpit to be "the birthplace of truth and fearlessness."

IS EPILEPSY CONQUERED?

New York Physicians Have Many Cures to Their Credit.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Advice from every direction fully confirm previous reports that the remarkable treatment for epilepsy being administered by the consulting physicians of the Kline Laboratories is achieving wonderful results. Old and stubborn cases have been greatly benefited and many patients claim to have been entirely cured.

Persons suffering from epilepsy should write at once to Kline Laboratories, 122 East Twenty-fifth street, Branch 222, New York, for a supply of the remedy which is being distributed gratuitously.—Advertisement.

MRS. HARVEY DUNHAM
UNDERGOES OPERATION

Grand-Daughter of Late Senator Vest Is Reported to Be in Favorable Condition.

Mrs. Harvey Dunham, a granddaughter of the late Senator George G. Vest of Missouri, who underwent an operation for appendicitis Wednesday, was reported Thursday morning as being in a favorable condition. The operation was performed by Dr. Paul V. Tupper at the home of the patient's mother, Mrs. George P. B. Jackson, 18 Hornby place. Five other physicians were in attendance.

Mrs. Dunham, who was Miss Margaret S. Jackson, has been in frail health for several years. Recently, when signs of appendicitis developed, she was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, but later was removed to her mother's home, where a room was fitted specially to insure quiet.

Mrs. Dunham's sister, Mrs. Robert S. Harnberger of New York, came to St. Louis to help care for her.

Hallstom in Kansas.

ATCHISON, Kan., April 2.—Several dwelling houses were unroofed by a severe windstorm in West Atchison last night. A heavy rain and hail accompanied the wind at Shannon, six miles west of here, and at Doniphan, six miles north.

TRIES TO DIE, IS SAVED

Plumber Attempts to Drink Acid, Bottle Knocked Away.

Robert McHenry, a plumber, 21 years old, 208 North Newstead avenue, according to the police, was prevented from taking his life in the saloon conducted by James Bambrick at 470 St. Louis avenue at 11 p. m. Wednesday.

Albert Eather of 238 North Newstead avenue saw McHenry try to drink carbolic acid, the police say, and knocked the bottle from his hands. He swallowed a little of the acid, but after treatment at a nearby drug store, was able to go home.

KISSES HUSBAND, ASKS HIM TO WAIT, DRINKS ACID, DIES

Mrs. Annie Mathewson, 35 years old, wife of Frank Mathewson, a train dispatcher in the employ of the Terminal, swallowed carbolic acid at 7 a. m. Thursday at her home, 2136 Salsbury street, and died an hour later. Ill health is the cause assigned.

Mrs. Mathewson had been sick for a year. Mathewson was ready to go to his work and had kissed his wife good-bye, when she asked him to wait a few minutes, as she had something that she wanted to do. He said all right and sat down in the parlor.

Mrs. Mathewson went to the kitchen and a moment later her husband heard her scream and fall. He ran to the kitchen and found her lying on the floor with an empty carbolic acid bottle beside her.

A doctor who was called in worked an hour in an effort to save her life, but was unsuccessful.

RESTRICTS WAGE INQUIRY

Illinois House Acts to Stop O'Hara Committee Junketing.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 2.—In order to prevent the O'Hara Senate Committee on girls' wages from further junketing outside of the State, the House Appropriation Committee amended the bill appropriating $10,000 for the expenses of the investigation so as to provide that the money be expended within the State.

The bill carrying the expenses of the investigation passed the Senate some time ago. Representative Luda L. Butts of Peoria introduced an amendment in the House committee which will confine the scope of the inquiry to the State of Illinois.

Estate Duty $1,337.000.

LONDON, April 2.—The Exchequer is $1,337,000 richer through the receipt of that amount of duty on the estate of the late Sir James Coates, who died manager for a large thread firm's American business. His estate was probated at $1,889,350.

AERO CLUB CALLS TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT FEASIBLE

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The London Daily Mail's offer of $50,000 for the first transatlantic aeroplane flight received hearty endorsement by the Aero Club of America at a meeting of the board of governors.

"Crossing the ocean in an airship is only a question of time, and the offer will do much to shorten that time," said Allen R. Hawley, president of the club. "Flights are being made daily, which show the aeroplane's ability to stay in the air for longer and longer periods, and there is no reason why the flight should not be made over the ocean instead of over a marked track."

Members of the club were optimistic in the prospects of an early fulfillment of the conditions of the offer. Some even predicted that the flight will be within a year.

The two main difficulties to be overcome are the carrying of sufficient fuel and the keeping of a direct course. This latter it has been suggested might be overcome by enlisting the co-operation of the Government and having relays of torpedo destroyers to keep within wireless communication of the aeroplanes and so serve as beacons.

NEW ASSEMBLY TO MEET ON SATURDAY FOR ORGANIZATION

Next Administration Practically Will Begin Then, Kiel Inauguration Tuesday.

Though the inauguration of Henry W. Kiel as Mayor is set for next Tuesday at noon, the new administration practically will begin Saturday, when the newly-elected Municipal Assembly will meet. Mayor Kreismann, Wednesday, issued a proclamation calling on the new Council and House to meet in their respective chambers at 3 p. m., Saturday, "for the purpose of organizing the new administration and for the installation of officers-elect of the Assembly and for the purposes prescribed by law."
As Kiel is not expected to return from Dallas, Tex., before Sunday, there will be little chance for him to take an active part in the organization of the House, unless that work is delayed until next week. Kiel wishes may not make much difference with the new House, as 17 of its 28 members are Democrats. John R. McCarthy and Andrew Gazzolo Jr. are talked of by the Democrats for the speakership, and the clerical positions probably will go to Democrats.

Council Organization.
The Council, which will have to elect a Vice-President, Secretary, Assistant Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms, will contain eight Republicans, four Democrats and one Progressive. This Council will have the power of approval on any appointment which Kiel may make to fill vacancies in the next two years.
His mid-term "slate" of appointments including Street, Water, Park, Sewer and Harbor Commissioners, Police Judges, Assessor and Collector of Water Rates and District Assessors, will be made after the Council election of 1915, at which the present Republican "holdovers" will be replaced.
But, owing to the new home rule laws,
Kiel will have some of his most important appointments to make at the outset of his administration. These are the new bi-partisan Police and Exclau-sion Boards, of two members each, the Mayor being a third and ex-officio member.

Democrats are now conceding the window of Col. Bill Phelps, who caused the boards to be made bi-partisan bodies under this provision, Kiel will have to name a Democrat on each.
Democratic Committeemen and office seekers are showing lively interest in the jobs which several of the newly elected city officials will have to dispense. Clerkships and deputyships in the office of the Comptroller, Assessor, Treasurer and Auditor are the most desirable of these places. The Assessor's office, with 40 jobs besides the district assessors, which are filled by the Mayor, is the object of the principal rush. The salaries range from $200 a month for the Chief Deputy down to $70 for second-class clerks.

Socialist Ran Third.
The Comptroller, Auditor and Treasurer together have about 40 appointments to make, subject to the Mayor's approval. The Inspector of Weights and Measures has nine subordinates.
These offices are passing from Republican to Democratic control, but the Comptroller's office contains a dozen or more Democrats now.

Collector Klein and Register Witter, having been re-elected, are expected to keep their office forces about as at present. The President of the Board of Public Improvements has at his disposal about 60 positions, besides a force of day laborers at 25 cents an hour. The City Marshal has about 30 jobs at his disposal. As these two offices remain in Republican control, no general shakeup is looked for at once.

Edmund R. Kinsey will not feel wholly safe as President-elect of the Board until after the official count. The police count gave him only 64 plurality over Ben C. Adkins, Democratic candidate.
The most lucrative office to be filled at the outset of the new administration is that of assistant to the President of the Board of Public Improvements, at $3000 a year. This office has been vacant since Charles M. Talbert was made Street Commissioner.

The Socialist vote was not shown in the first returns, but later examination has shown that Hauser, Socialist nominee for Mayor, got 461 votes, to 463 for Frank H. Gerhart, Progressive, so that Gerhart ran fourth.

200 MEN GIVE UP LIVES TO BLOW UP TURKISH FORTRESS

CETTINJE, April 3.—While the warships of the Powers are steaming up and down the Montenegrin coast in a demonstration against the siege of Scu-tari, the Montenegrin troops are pushing forward their success in storming

the Great Tarabosch fort.
This fort, which for months has held the allies off Scutari, is now practically in the hands of the Montenegrins, thanks to the sacrifice of 200 bomb throwers, every one of whom lost his life in a last desperate effort to clear the way to the town.
These bomb throwers were all picked men, chosen from several battalions.
Clambering up the mountain side under a murderous fire from the Turkish guns, they cut the wire entanglements and getting to close quarters, threw bombs among the Turks, thus opening the way for the storming party. Not one of the bomb throwers returned, but they had accomplished their object and the Montenegrin infantry, following close upon them, charged the trenches.

The Turks held their ground and a desperate hand-to-hand fight ensued, lasting an hour and ending in victory for the Montenegrins, who lost 300 killed or wounded.
After tier of trenchments had to be taken, but the troops of the Southern Division, under Gen. Marti-novich, to whom the task had been assigned, overcame all obstacles.
The tactics followed particularly in regard to the use of bomb throwers were similar to those adopted in the capture of Adrianople, but in the advance on Adrianople the soldiers who cut and divided the wire entanglements surrounding the fort were clad in cuirasses and provided with shields.

YOU CAN MAKE PURE LAGER BEER

In Your Own Home—with Johann Hofmeister Genuine Lager Beer Extract

You can now brew your own beer—best your own home. With Johann Hofmeister Beer Extract anyone can make the same high quality lager beer that has been made in Germany for ages—25 the same honest, old-fashioned way. Beer that is so tasty, wholesome, satisfying, every member of the family will surely be delighted with it. Better beer than you can buy in saloons or in bottles and worse. And it will cost less than 2 cents a quart—a little over a half cent a glass!

Real Malt and Hop Beer at 11 Cents a Gallon

Remember, it's not imitation beer—but real German style lager beer, made of select Barley Malt and the best Hop. It is a fine natural color—topped with a rich, creamy foam. Pure as can be—with life and health in every drop. And the taste—oh, delicious! Johann Hofmeister Lager Beer Extract is guaranteed under the U. S. Food and Drug Act, Serial No. 3631. No license needed anywhere to make your own beer with this pure extract. Get a sample of it today, follow the simple instructions—then you'll know why brewers everywhere never sold where this beer has been introduced.

50c can makes 3 gallons of beer. The can makes 7 gallons of beer. Sold by all Druggists, or sent direct, Johann Hofmeister, 55 Hofmeister Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

DOCTORS ONCE TRIED FOR MAIL FRAUD REINDICTED

Prewitt and Bruce Formerly Convicted, but Court of Appeals Dismissed Cases.

When Dr. R. C. Prewitt appeared Thursday before the United States District Clerk and gave bond for $5000 it developed that the March Federal grand jury had reindicted him and Ryland C. Bruce, convicted last spring of using the mails to defraud. He said Bruce would furnish bond later in the day. A year ago Bruce and Dr. Prewitt were charged with manufacturing a drug called "Habibina," which they said would cure persons addicted to the use of morphine. They were convicted on two counts, their punishment on one count being fixed at five years' imprisonment and on the other two years. In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals both counts were knocked out, it being ruled that in one instance the Postmaster-General had exceeded his authority in barring the drug from the mails. The court also decided the lower court had erred in giving to the jury certain instructions. Dr. Prewitt and Bruce maintain offices in the Holland Building.

OFFICEHOLDER'S PAY CUT, HE QUILTS U. S. POSITION

Senate Principal Clerk, 20 Years in Washington, Won't Stand for Wages Slash.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—When one's $3000 job is suddenly slashed to $1000, it is calculated to make the victim peeved. This, at least, was the view taken by A. C. Parkinson, principal clerk of the Senate, when he was told by members of the Patronage Committee that such a reduction had been made. "Not for me," quoth Parkinson, pulling down his roll-top desk, and reaching for his hat. "Take your bloomin' old job and jump off the dock with it." Whereupon Parkinson packed his goods and chattels and now is on his way back to Wisconsin, which he left more than 20 years ago, to come to Washington. He was a friend of Senator Vilas and is a Democrat.

SLIT SKIRTS? NO, CORSETS? AH, YES, SAYS MONS. WORTH

Parisian Arbitrator of Woman's Dress Tells Marguerite Marshall All About It.

By MARGUERITE MOORE MARSHALL.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Jacques Worth of the house of Worth, which dictates the dress of American women, and indeed of all civilized women, has just arrived to pay his first visit to New York.

And the sartorial prophesy and philosophy of Jacques Worth, as he unfolded them to me, should have of tremendous interest to the feminine half of St. Louis. In a series of articles for the Post-Dispatch he discusses what to wear and how to wear it as only he or a member of his family is able to do. He is the grandson of the man who went to France as a boy of 16 and founded the House of Worth, and his uncle Jean is the present head of the famous costume house. His influence may be traced not only in the wardrobe of wealthy women, but in the styles we all adopt, down to the umpty-teenth ready-made copy.

The first questions I put to M. Worth concerned the ever-absorbing problem of what "they" are going to wear this spring and summer.

Skirts Narrow and Draped.

Here are a few of the most interesting announcements that Worth had to make for those who are purchasing their new outfits.

"The narrow, draped skirt will be the favorite exclusive model, preserving the long, slim lines of the figure and eliminating hips."

"The waist line will not be high under the bust, nor will it be quite natural, but just between the two extremes—what we call the three-quarters."

"Sleeves will remain small and the long sleeve, hanging loose from the shoulder and ending in a point, will be popular for evening wear."

"Low collars will be generally worn."

"But what about the slit skirt?" I inquired. "So many women are wearing it in New York."

M. Worth leaned back and his very naturally arched brows described a more parabolic curve, also his double set of extraordinarily white and regular teeth showed in a fleeting smile.

"We do not make the slit skirt," he emphasized, the emphasis on the royal pronoun quiet, yet marked. "But I do not wonder that it is worn by some. What else was there to do when the hobble skirt was drawn so tight as to prevent all movement?"

"We, the House of Worth, never made the extreme hobble. How could we? It is so ugly, so ungraceful, so utterly impossible, binding the feet of the wearer in such a way that harmonious movement is out of the question. She had to walk this way"—and M. Worth executed a plucky shuffle of his shapely patent leathers, which had been curled up under the rounds of his chair. He is much taller than the average Frenchman, also much slenderer—not a bit the "bon papa" comedy type. However, he has his full share of national politeness. I know, for he talked to me in the Plaza lobby, though he was yearning both for breakfast and for a shave. It is a moment when the average man reverts to primitive savagery.

"But the narrow skirt," he resumed after his imitation of a hobbler, "the narrow skirt is charming. It will be worn for a long time to come because it makes a woman look slender. Properly cut and draped, it makes even a stout woman more personable than she could be in any other sort of dress."

American Women's Figure Is Lovely. "I think that the American woman has naturally the loveliest figure of any woman in the world. She is tall and long of limb, with sloping shoulders and narrow hips. She has a beautiful neck and arms. I believe that she can wear beautiful clothes more beautifully than the women of any other land, and I prefer to dress her. Even the American shop girl is charming."

"Of course, there are exceptions. I saw a stout woman of—let us say, 60—in Fifth avenue. She wore a narrow skirt slashed up to her knees, her bodice was cut down to here," and M. Worth laid a long, exquisitely maneuvered finger on the spot where his belt buckle would have been if he'd worn one. "She had a little hat perched on one side of her head. And yet she had paid a great deal of money for the clothes she was wearing. Sometimes we have to do that," he added, with a rueful, apologetic grin. "But we don't like it."

"Yet you said you were going to introduce more daring clothes than ever this coming season," I remarked. "I never, never said such a thing!" he exclaimed, indignantly. "Worth has been, will always be, conservative. It is true," he conceded, after a moment during which he twinkled had crept into his eyes. "That I find the modes of the moment quite daring enough."

"How about the rumor that we shall leave off corsets?" I suggested. "When men go about barefoot, or with their collars removed, women will stop wearing corsets. The woman who is slender and has a beautiful figure likes to show it. Therefore, her corsets are cut low, and unnecessary bones are removed. But the fat woman wears long, heavy corsets. The woman who is neither stout nor slender wears the stays which she needs and no woman who pretends to be well dressed dispenses altogether with such support."

"And there is another prediction that women will shortly come to trousers," I mentioned.

"That, too, is out of the question," M. Worth declared, with decision. "When the manikins appeared in the streets of Paris, wearing the harem skirt, they met with such showers of abuse and even more forcible missiles that they were compelled to flee back to the show room. So you see that even Parisian public opinion would not stand for feminine trousers. And yet the full, soft Turkish trousers are most becoming for house wear for women. They can be developed into beautiful evening costumes and are also charming for tea gowns. But they never 'took,' and I do not now believe that they will ever come back."

Prophecy as to Modes Is Dangerous. "The hoop skirt, the bustle and the balloon sleeve are three other modes which I prophesy will never return. I do not think that we or any establishment could force women to wear the things, even if we wished. And yet, if one of these modes should appear in 1913 and you should come to me with this article and say, 'See! Here is what you said in 1913,' I could only reply, 'I know! But what I said then I believed then!'"

Whereupon M. Worth returned to the safer purities of prophecy, those which do not extend beyond the present season.

"The colors which will be chiefly worn are peacock blue and emerald green," he vouchsafed. "Also what I call the 'middle colors' will be much liked. These come in between red and yellow, russet and brown. In Paris the two-tone suits—the coat of one color, the skirt of another color—are much liked. Bulgarian blues are of the mode, also the Bulgarian blouses. For this summer frocks of light-weight lace will be in general favor, worn mostly over white. For evening wear, black, white and pink is a new combination which shows off jewels excellently. "Why do we all have to go to Paris tomorrow."

M. Worth will answer that question to-morrow.

$5 MOTHER HAD GIVEN HIM TAKEN FROM SLAIN MAN

Mrs. Cornelia Childers of 375 Olive street, wife of Roy Clark Childers, grocery salesman, who was beaten to death in "The Valley" in East St. Louis Tuesday night, declared Thursday she will not rest until she has run down his murderers and brought them to justice.

The killing of Childers presents a mystery which the police of St. Louis and East St. Louis have not been able to solve. Mrs. Childers does not believe it was a gang murder or that it had anything to do with the Carroll killing in St. Louis. She says her husband belonged to no gang and denies she cautioned him not to go to East St. Louis because of a gang that was supposed to be after him.

MADE-IN-ST. LOUIS STAMP URGED FOR ALL-LOCAL GOODS

Sales Managers' Association Starts a Movement to Advertise the City.

The St. Louis Sales Managers' Association, of which Phil A. Becker is president, has started a movement to advertise the merchandise manufactured in St. Louis by inducing St. Louis manufacturers to imprint upon every article which they manufacture the words "Made in St. Louis." This is in line with a general movement to boost St. Louis and St. Louis products in all parts of the country in which the Sales Managers' Association is in co-operation with the Advertising Men's League.

Col. Slaker Is New Commandant.
Col. Adam Slaker, new commandant of the United States recruiting station at Jefferson Barracks, formally took charge of the post Thursday, succeeding Col. William T. Wood, who will depart Saturday for Washington.

Col. Slaker will retire from the service Aug. 1 and will make an extended tour of Europe with his wife. A formal reception will be held in the evening in Capt. Pillsbury's quarters, at which Col. and Mrs. Slaker will be guests of honor.

SAVES MILES OF STEPS—LOW FIXED PRICE

War on Out-of-Date Kitchens Stirs Entire City

117 Hoosier Club Memberships Taken First 3 Days—Only 183 Left

Each Means a Cabinet for $1.00

Applications are pouring in. Enthusiastic women are responding in great numbers to our announcement of the Hoosier Club. We could place four times as many cabinets if we could get them—but you see for yourself how few there are for the crowd that would like to enroll.

It means sure and inevitable disappointment for the woman that put off enrolling until later.

If you want to save miles of weary steps for your tired feet; if you want the pleasure and comfort of satisfaction that come from owning a genuine Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet, and to enjoy it by paying only one dollar—call at once and join our Hoosier Club. For remember, unless you are one of the lucky few you will have to wait a long time before you can join another Hoosier Club.

Will you go through months more of useless walking up and down, back and forth in your kitchen? NO—a single $1.00 for your membership fee, $1.00 a week in dues—all the payments you have to make—and the famous labor-saving Hoosier Cabinet is yours right away, to save the wasted time and useless steps that sap your health and spirits.

Saves Hours of Time Makes Model Kitchen

The miles of steps you save by having everything you need in cooking gathered within reach of your arm so that you reach for it instead of walk for it, mean an enormous time saving—Hours to spend in pleasure, or in needed rest, or to spend at pleasant fancy work and sewing.

Stop the miles of useless steps and save your health and strength—keep off your feet if you want to keep well.

A Hoosier in your home is a big help toward keeping you robust and young and good looking.

Once you get your Hoosier, you will make far fewer trips to your pantry and cupboard, and almost forget that you have a store room.

It holds everything you need in cooking—supplies and utensils—is fitted with convenient, sanitary receptacles to take care of the most of them. Flour is in a metal-lined bin, fitted with a sifter—sugar in another—there are crystal jars for coffee, tea and spices. Your table top which pulls out to a size of 49 inches—larger than the average kitchen table, is covered with pure aluminum—rust proof and spot proof; cleaned silver-bright by simply wiping. There are ample cupboards—drawers for knives and linen—a metal-lined bread and cake drawer.

Low Price Stays Fixed

The cabinets that we send out during Hoosier Club Week are all at the low national price fixed by the factory.

Your dollar fee and dollar a week dues give you this splendid cabinet at not a penny more than the Hoosier Manufacturing Company has fixed all over the country.

Made of sturdy, everlasting oak, that steam and moisture will never harm, it gives you solid value that is possible only through low manufacturing cost.

You can never get all you might have in a kitchen cabinet unless you have the Hoosier. Remember, that every woman in town is seeing this advertising just as you are—and that she also wants a Hoosier on our Club Terms.

Then remember how few are left—how quickly the others were taken—and come early tomorrow!

NEW RUSSIAN TREATY UP

Bryan Seeks to Replace Abrogated Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary of State Bryan has opened negotiations with the Russian Government through Ambassador Bakhmeteff here for a new commercial treaty—a treaty to take the place of the treaty of 1832, abrogated by President Taft.

Every effort was made to avoid opening up the question of a new treaty until Bryan took up the situation and the two nations had worked just the same as though the treaty of 1832 was still in force. This was done to avoid a discussion of the cause which led to the abrogation of the old treaty—recognition by Russia of passports issued to American Jews.

SALOON KEEPER IN COUNTY FINED $100 FOR SUNDAY SALES

First of 72 Cases, Brought to Enforce Lid Law, Won by Lashly.

Trials of the 72 Sunday liquor selling cases, by which Prosecuting Attorney Lashly hopes to put the lid on St. Louis County, will proceed from day to day in Judge Wurdeman's Court at Clayton through the month of April.

Lashly won a victory in the first of the cases, that of Louis Ortmann of Wellston, tried Wednesday afternoon.

Ortmann was fined $100, and this punishment, under the law, entails the forfeiture of his license.

The evidence offered against Ortmann was that obtained by Lashly and three others who made a round of county saloons, buying drinks on Sunday.

State Senator Gardner, leader of the Republican forces in the upper House of the Legislature, appeared as Ortmann's lawyer, and in his plea for the saloonkeeper, declared that Sunday liquor selling was merely "a conventional offense." This was the term applied to the crime of bribery by Henry S. Priest in his plea in the Snyder boodle case.

Gardner offered no testimony in refutation of that presented by Lashly and his companions. He announced his purpose to appeal from the verdict.

The maximum fine in these cases is $200, the minimum $50. Assistant Prosecutor George Barnett is aiding Lashly.

GIRL RUNS AWAY AS FIVE BROTHERS AND SISTERS DID

Fronie Nichols, 15 and Tall Made to Wear Short Dresses, Disappears.

The report of Charles W. Nichols, of 1422 Dodder street, to the police, that his daughter, Fronie, 15 years old, had run away from home, revealed a strange situation in the Nichols household.

A married sister of the missing girl told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the discipline of her parents' home had caused five of their children to run away in the same manner and that two of the girls, herself included, finally had run away to be married.

This sister, Mrs. Flora Sawyer of 244 Prairie avenue, said her oldest brother, Floyd, had run away at the age of 23 because his father insisted on his going to bed each night at 8:30 o'clock. While denying she knows where Fronie is, Mrs. Sawyer said she thought the girl ran away because she was compelled to wear short dresses to school and was not allowed to belong to a girls' club in which the members at parties danced with each other.

Girl Nearly Six Feet Tall. "Fronie is almost six feet tall," she declared, "and it is embarrassing for her to go to school with dresses that come only to her knees. She has begged her mother to allow her to wear longer skirts, but her mother insists she is too young."

Mrs. Sawyer told of a curious custom as her family or giving all the children names that begin with the letter F. Her own name is Flora. Then there are Fronie, Floyd, Frances and Forest living and Fred, Florence and Fern dead. Frances is Mrs. Frances Welch.

RUNAWAY GIRL STARTS HOME, 60 MILES, AFOOT

Eshter Dull, in Stocking Feet, Found By Watchman Trudging to Paris, Mo.

A light-haired, blue-eyed girl of 14, trudging in her stocking feet along the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks, carrying a pair of new shoes in one hand and a large grip in the other, and sobbing, attracted the attention of Private Watchman Mike Lane of the Scullin-Gallagher Steel Works in Benson Wednesday night.

When Lane questioned the girl she said between sobs that she was Eshter Dull and that she was walking to her home in Paris, Mo., 60 miles away.

Eshter told the police that her mother scolded her because she spilled a pitcher of milk Tuesday evening and that she then went to her room, wrote a farewell note and taking the grip and what money she could find set out.

She got as far as the Star Hotel, Seventeenth and Market streets, and then decided she wanted to go back home. She had no more money and started out to walk the distance. She removed her shoes because they hurt her feet.

STAGE STRUCK GIRL SPENDS $110 IN WEEK

Stepfather of Gladys McQuillan of Pittsburg, Kan., Has Her Arrested Here.

Gladys Elvyn McQuillan, 14 years old, who years to be a prouetting ballet dancer, and who counts her wealth in "jitneys" (nickels), had just five of those coins left when a policeman arrested her Wednesday evening near her rooming place, 4261 Arco avenue.

She has $110 when she left her home in Pittsburg, Kan., a week ago last Sunday.

The girl's arrest followed a search made here by her stepfather, C. E. Woodbury of Pittsburg, who had caused her description to be posted in police stations.

On the way she gave $10 to a woman who had lost her ticket. When she got here she invested $15.50 in a check dress, $4 in tan shoes, and smaller amounts for stockings and ribbons. The rest of the money, she said after her arrest, went for meals, carfare and "jitney shows."

For, alas, she did not find her longed-for ballet here either.

GIRL OUT LATE FORGETS NAME AND ADDRESS

Escort Runs Away as Policeman Comes Up and She Becomes Hysterical.

Rose Freeman, 17 years old, daughter of John Freeman, 294 North Seventeenth street, was found by a policeman at 1 a. m. Thursday at Russell avenue and Longfellow boulevard, in a nervous and dazed condition. She said she was lost and did not know her own name or address.

She was sent to the city hospital. After she had been there an hour she gave her name. She said she was out with a young man, who ran when he saw the policeman approaching. As she was a long way from home and had no carfare she became hysterical and forgot her name and address.

The girl wants to return to her home and will be permitted to do so.

ILLINOIS RESERVES SAVE 36 MISSOURI SOLDIERS ON LEVEE

Troops, Rescued From Bird's Point, Are Sent to Caruthersville to Guard Levee.

CAIRO FEELS IT IS SAFE

Stage of River Is Highest in History—Shawneetown Ruined and Deserted.

By CHARLES PARSONS, Mayor of Cairo, Ill.
 (By telephone to the Post-Dispatch in response to a request for an authoritative statement of conditions in Cairo.)
 CAIRO, Ill., April 2.—We are stronger than ever today, and more confident than ever that we will come through this flood safe and dry.
 Our river gauge shows 54.5 feet of water today. This is nearly 10 feet above the flood stage and is the highest water we ever have had. Our levees are ready for 57 feet, and the indications are that we will not have that much.
 Engineer Charles H. Miller of Little Rock, who is assisting us, has made an inspection of all our defenses and he reported to me at 10 a. m. that the entire system was in perfect condition. Fifty men patrol the embankments constantly. We have plenty of earth to fill bags, and 200,000 empty bags ready.

36 MISSOURI SOLDIERS SAVED

By Associated Press.
 CAIRO, Ill., April 2.—Thirty-six members of the Missouri National Guard, who were marooned on a section of the levee at Bird's Point, Mo., last night, were taken off early today by the tender of the Illinois Naval Reserve.
 The tender was unable to stem the current of the swift Ohio and was being carried into a dangerous position, when Col. Moriarty of the Illinois National Guard, here, went out with the tug Thessa and towed the tender and the Missouri guardsmen safely to shore.
 Two Captains Rescued.
 Capt. S. A. Martin, regimental quartermaster, and Capt. A. Hamblen of the Sixth Missouri National Guard Regiment, were rescued last night from a section of levee at Bird's Point, just below here, and brought here in a launch. They brought news that 36 of their men were marooned.
 The strongest current in the Ohio since the flood waters attained their record height here was noticeable today. In addition there was a considerable wind that made the waters rough and the strain greater against both the levee and bulkhead work which has been constructed as a reinforcement.
 Forecaster Lindley, who issued a statement today explaining that there had been no apparent rise in the waters for the nine hours, gave as a reason for the standstill the breaking of small levees in Missouri and Kentucky. A great stretch of Missouri land is now under water, materially relieving the situation here.
 The Missouri soldiers who were rescued and brought to Cairo, received orders to proceed to Caruthersville, Mo., where levee destruction is threatened, and they were taken there at once in a boat from here.
 Supplies for Other Towns.
 Food, tents, lanterns and other supplies were taken from here today to Mounds City, Ill., and relief is waiting for Brookport, Ill., Caseyville, Ky., and Shawneetown, Ill. It word comes that the help of this city is needed. Boats were taken by the Chicago Naval Reserve through the flooded drainage district today to Villa Ridge, Ill., to bring here soldiers and others who remain.
 No newspapers or other mail from outside towns have reached here for nearly 48 hours. Crowds are continually in front of the newspaper offices, where bulletins are posted.

SHAWNEETOWN RUINED; DESERTED

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., April 2. (By boat to Dekoven).—All that is left of Shawneetown is the few substantial brick and stone buildings behind the main levee, and they are considered unsafe.
 Less than 100 persons out of 3000 remain in the town and they are perched in the second and third stories. A strong wind swept over the destruction, begun by the opening of the south levee. Between the churning waters and the southwest gale frame buildings fell to pieces and the more substantial structures were shaken.

MISSOURI REFUGEES AT ANNISTON NEED AID AND PROVISIONS

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—A telegram from C. H. Balding, Mayor of Anniston, Mississippi County, Mo., to Gov. Major this morning, stated that flood refugees are flocking into that city and it is impossible to provide them all with food and shelter. He asked tents and food. The Governor's private secretary at once wired to Adj. Gen. O'Meara, who is in the flood district, advising him to make arrangements, through Gov. Major as president of the Red Cross Society, upon the national organization for immediate relief and to give such other aid as he can.
 Maj. J. A. Longan, of the United States Army, in Louisville, wired to the Governor that Capt. McMaster had left there for Caruthersville, Mo., with instructions to aid the State and Municipal authorities in taking care of the flood sufferers. He asked that Col. Oliver of the Sixth Missouri Regiment of National Guards be instructed to co-operate with Capt. McMaster.

HUSBAND RAN AWAY BECAUSE SPRING CLEANING WAS ON

He Didn't So Much Mind Dishwashing and Mopping, Although He Had Housemaid's Knee.

WASHTUB GAVE HIM CHILL

Wife's Married Nieces Visited Them 8 Years; He Figured That Too Much Was Enough.

NEW YORK, April 2.—"It was not for love of Miss Helen Reader that I left my 35-year-old wife in Maryland a week ago and came to live with the Readers in Brooklyn," said August G. Bernhard, who is 35 years old, yesterday.
 "I ran away because I got tired of doing housework. There is not much romance in mopping floors and washing dishes and making hash and hanging out clothes and cooking meals for a wife that is 34 years older than you are, even if she does own a 120-acre farm and has a $25,000 bank account.
 "Of course, if my wife should get a divorce," he continued, "then I might marry Miss Reader. She is a nice girl and only 40 years old, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Reader, owns this house at 34 Sumpter street.
 "All I got out of matrimony so far is a mild attack of housemaid's knee and a deadly fear of a dishcloth. The sight of a washtub gives me the chills. But I might have stuck it out for a while longer, only a week ago Monday my Dora said:
 "Today, August, it is time for you to begin the spring cleaning. Take the auto and go down and get a nice carpet beater. It will be good exercise for you—much better than washing clothes."
 "I got into the auto and I didn't stop, believe me, until I got to Brooklyn. I came all the way from Easton, Md., and if I began to go slow I thought of spring cleanings and only hit the high places."
 How 230 pounds of Mrs. Dora Bernhard traced her errant husband to Brooklyn and lay in ambush for him outside the Reader home in Sumpter street and how she grabbed him by the ear late Tuesday night has been told. Mrs. Bernhard demanded the automobile and a note for $1500. Bernhard cheerfully surrendered the note but he clung onto the auto which he is keeping in a garage in Marion street, Brooklyn.
 When Mrs. Bernhard, who stopped at the Clarendon, went to the Domestic Relations Court yesterday morning she was referred to the Legal Aid Society. She says the automobile is hers. Mr. Bernhard says:
 "That auto is mine. I earned it. An auto isn't enough for a man to be a washerwoman. A whole garage full of 'em isn't worth it."
 "I went to work for Mrs. Bernhard when I was 22 years old. She said she would pay me $100 a year. When leap year came in 1908 she proposed to me. I kicked. I said I didn't want to be married. Afterwards we were married and she made her will in my favor. Now I suppose she will tear it up. But I don't care.
 "My wife's nieces also, Mrs. Metz, Mrs. Wolcup and Mrs. Protz, interfered all the time. One of them went to a fortune teller and he told her that a young woman with blond hair would make her trouble. They all believed the fortune teller. Miss Reader has blond hair. Now, you see?
 "Mrs. Reader and Miss Reader have been visiting at the farm for eight years. I used to take drives with Miss Reader and buy her candy. That made a lot of gossip, because I was so sporty. I am glad to be in Brooklyn, where a gentleman can buy a lady candy without everyone thinking he is a village cutup.
 Romance of Leap Year! Bah!
 "But Mrs. Reader says that I can make my home here as long as I wish. I can't do heavy work any longer. Being a fireless-cooker-dishwasher for five years took all my strength. Romance in leap-year marriages? Bah!
 Miss Helen Reader said:
 "I do not care for Mr. Bernhard. He came here once before and we sent him home to his wife. Now he has come again and we have told him that he may stay until he can find a home of his own. He is a good friend of ours, that is all."

MORGAN FUNERAL TRAIN PASSES THE ITALIAN FRONTIER

Body on Way to Dijon, France, Where It Will Be Placed on an America-Bound Ship.

DOCTORS GIVE STATEMENT

Declaré He Was Ill When He Left New York and Gradually Became Weaker.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
 ROME, April 2.—Word reached here today from Brig. Switzerland, that the Morgan funeral train, which left here shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, had passed the Italian-Swiss frontier this morning, and had proceeded direct through the Simplon Tunnel on the way to Dijon, France, where it will be placed on a ship bound for the United States.
 Following the departure of the body, Drs. Giuseppe Bastianelli, M. Allen Starr and G. A. Dixon, the three physicians who attended Morgan in his last illness, issued the following formal statement:
 "When Mr. Morgan left New York on Jan. 7, he was a very tired man physically and mentally. His digestion and nutrition were impaired.
 "It was hoped that his usual trip to Egypt would be a great benefit to him, giving him rest and building up his nervous force, especially as he had no organic disease. His appetite, however, failed, and consequently his strength and weight did not improve.
 "Took Cold in Egypt.
 "He contracted a severe cold in Egypt which further weakened him. Then a state of mental depression and feebleness developed. When he arrived at Cairo he was very much run down.
 "During the three weeks at Cairo he improved mentally and physically. His powers of concentration and memory showed no impairment. The trip to Rome did not fatigue him. He continued to gain slowly for 10 days.
 "A week before his death his strength began to fail and he was put to bed. Wednesday afternoon he became delirious. Extreme exhaustion followed. This continued until Sunday evening when he passed into a state of coma.
 "G. C. Face, the private courier, who had served Morgan for 12 years, a man huge in stature and intensely devoted to the financier, gave an account today of Morgan's last sightseeing trip. He always referred to Morgan as the "Commodore."
 He told how he had taken the banker to the top of the Villa Aurelia, which crowns the Janiculum Hill, overlooking Rome. This visit was made during Holy Week, at the request of Prof. Carter of the American Museum of Natural History, for several minutes gazed on the panorama below.
 "I'm glad I was able to reach this spot," he said. "The view is a treat I never shall forget."
 He pointed feebly to the Church of St. Paul in the Quirinal section. He spoke of the struggle it had had for existence, contrasting it to the magnificence of its surroundings. According to Pace, Morgan spoke as though he knew that he never would leave Rome.
 The big corner room of the Grand Hotel, in which short funeral services were held by Rev. Frank Nelson, was flooded with flowers. Empress Eugenie sent a magnificent offering, as did the Roman Society. All music in the hotel was stopped, out of respect for the dead.
 The procession to the station was headed by representatives of the municipality of Rome and a squad of carabinieri. Then came the mourning coach, embellished with numerous large wreaths, principally of white roses, caught up with the Italian national colors. The coach was open on all sides, leaving the casket in full view of the throng.
 Mrs. Satterlee Is Ill.
 Immediately behind the coach was an automobile in which rode Mr. Satterlee. He was unaccompanied, as Mrs. Satterlee is ill at the Grand Hotel. An automobile, in which rode Mrs. Bastianelli and Dixon, followed. Then came the municipal coach bearing Mayor Nathan. Eight carriages were next in the last of which rode Mrs. Huriburn and Mrs. Lee.
 At the railroad station, which was reached at 4:30 p. m., the casket was carried to the mortuary car on the Simplon Express. Two other special cars were attached.
 Cablegrams received by American Consuls Merrick at Paris and Bouteille at Berne, Switzerland, requested that everything possible be done to expedite the transportation of the body through the two countries. These dispatches were sent by the State Department in Washington, in view of the vast amount of red tape and many obstacles incident to the transportation of a body across the continent.
 In addition to sending a magnificent floral wreath for the funeral, Emperor William sent to Mr. Satterlee a message of condolence, and to Mrs. Morgan he sent the following:
 "Accept the expression of my sincerest sympathy in your great bereavement. Your husband's death is a loss not only for you, your family and your country, but his many friends in all parts of the world will never forget him."
 The dog to which Morgan was most attached was a Pekingese spaniel. It had been his constant companion. Since the death of its master the animal has remained in his kennel, refusing to eat or to be comforted.

Short Story

Babe's
Red
Agate.

By E. Russell Palmer.

THE sun beat down with midsummer fury on Persons' whitewashed barn. The heat waves danced with careless abandon along the top of Persons' rough board fence, and the temperature was that of the steam-room in a Turkish bath.

Up in the barn loft under a pile of clover hay crouched a heavy-breasted negro, Babe Massar, with a steel ring locked about his left ankle. Attached to the ring was a stout yard of log chain, the lost link chewed, twisted and broken. The rest of the chain with a large lead ball worn flat on one side, was lying under the callidiums in Persons' front yard.

Babe's escape had not been spectacular. Continual dropping wears stone, and every third blow of a pick-axe falling on a selected link of chain soon has the desired effect.

When a mere shred of steel remained between Babe and liberty he leaned his pick against a telegraph pole and drew out a gorgeous handana, a sop of his glistening black forehead, while he gazed reflectively at the line of waiting figures that extended along the gutter, each equipped with leaded ball and steel chain, each standing ankle deep in the reeking slime.

When he returned the cloth to his hip pocket with a slight flourish. It was his tacit adieu to the Brothers of Slavery, better known as the chain gang.

With a respectful glance at the blue-coated form under the shade of a persimmon tree on the opposite sidewalk, Babe sauntered into Persons' front yard and applied his thick, thrifty lips to the hose-tap beside the stone steps.

Adroitly kicking his ball and chain back among the "elephant ears," he waited until the keen eyes on the opposite sidewalk had turned away, and then he slipped around into the back yard with the scrap of chain leaping and clinking behind him through the dusty grass.

Wasting no time, he sought the seclusion of the hay loft, and burying himself deep in the aromatic clover, listened to the hunt one anxious hour.

Through a crack in the pine floor he saw a policeman enter the barn, swearing and perspiring; saw him peer about for a moment in the gloom and then stride forth into the glaring, stinking alley.

Babe's bulging eyes caught the nervous, eager twitching of the policeman's finger along the handle of his club, and he was very grateful for the sheltering loft, the soft hay and the blistering heat that kept the bluecoat from attempting the loft. But enough time had already been wasted looking for the runaway. The gutters had to be cleaned as far south as Eighteenth street. The hunt stopped as suddenly as it had begun, and Babe with a grunt of satisfaction made himself comfortable and went to sleep.

Two hours later he was aroused by the sound of voices in the alley below. He was comfortable no longer. His throat was caked with dust; his eyes burned; the clover made him wriggle and squirm like a martyr on a grill.

Spiders had improved the idle hour by building webs about him as though he was a big black fly to be devoured at leisure. The plaintive squeaking of many mice in uncomfortable proximity to his trousers legs annoyed him. He had won his liberty, and the first taste of it made him long for the cool, shady cell in the town jail.

"Pat."

"Taint nuthin'."

"Aw, take a look."

"Gimme them drats."

"Yas-I will."

"Stick 'em back and gimme a chaney. Yaint gonna quit winners, are yuh?"

"Not till I get all your drats—stock in."

Babe wormed his way to the crack between the little square swinging doors and speedily forgot all his bodily discomforts.

The Persons boy was playing marbles in the alley with the grocery boy, whose horse was lazelely enjoying the last leaf of a young maple tree that had committed the indiscretion of growing over the fence instead of staying in its own back yard.

The grocery boy was winning, of course, while young Persons fought every inch of the way with stubbornness and energy more commendable than his sportsmanship, making vain protests and bitter charges of foul play that passed over his adversary's head like the brown water over the paddle wheel of a river boat.

Babe's eyes glued itself to the crack with the true fascination of the gambler born.

As a boy he had earned a reputation in the districts that surrounded Twelfth and Trimble streets, which will surely outlive the more unsavory notoriety of his later days. When the crack of bat against ball brought joy to the hearts of others, the click of his "lawas" as he scattered the "drats" was sweeter than the sweetest music in the ears of Babe Vassar.

To stand gracefully and take steady aim over taut thumb as true as the trigger of a rifle and plump than clean and fair was perhaps the purest joy he had ever known. The puff of dust that followed a long shot, the freedom of "anythings," and the cunning delight of "knucks" were the most delightful memories of his rough-and-tumble existence.

He had a coffee-sack stuffed away in one of his homes filled to bursting with "drats," "crystchuls," "bles," "tighas" and "glasses," and he loved them still, as he had loved them ever since he learned to play for keeps. Then there is a drawer—I won't say where, because Babe is going back after them some day, and there would be a murder sure enough if he found that drawer had been tampered with—a drawer where he keeps his agates.

There are 37 of them in all, each trophy of a hard-earned victory. Babe always boasted he never bought a marble in his life—commercialism never entered into his favorite hobby. The first drat he ever owned was gouged out of a "wetcome mat" in front of a saloon, and the rest he won as a gentleman should.

There are in that drawer pale moonstones illuminated daintily with tiny crescents, sure proofs of their worth, and there are glossy "cat eyes," true aristocrats of the marble kingdom. Between these extremes there is an infinite variety, delicate pinks and rose colors ringed with purest white, rich dark reds without a blemish, and wonderful pearl grays with light shining from within and giving them an almost opalescent warmth and glow.

Let others collect scarabs, umbrellas, hotel towels and ivory elephants; not for Babe. He was the connoisseur of agates.

The carpenter who drove the staple into the hay entrance of the Persons' barn had no thought of breaking up a future marble game, and he would have resented bitterly being called a deus ex machina. But just the same the point arose. "Wouldn't things have turned out a lot differently had he hit this staple just one more lick before dropping his hammer?"

At any rate, the staple pulled out at the crucial moment and Babe Vassar—with bulging eyes, wildly dilated nostrils and waving limbs—plunged headlong into the alley, scattering marbles far and wide just as the grocery boy shot and missed.

An instant later a policeman swung around the corner, took his cue handily and played his part to perfection. It consisted simply in bringing the dusty and perspiring head of Babe Vassar into immediate and forcible juxtaposition with his polished and loaded hickory club. Then he whistled for assistance.

"Ah wondah when those nighgahs is goin' to fo'git all about this bein' Uncle Tom burlesquers and is goin' to stock to scrapin' the mud and slime out in gutters. It kinda makes me mad—it does."

"It kinda does me, too," chimed in his colleague, sympathetically. "You take his feet—now."

When the jail door slammed on Babe's head later he felt the lump on the back of his head, and smiled. Then he opened his big, black hand and in its terra-cotta center nestled a large red agate.

YOU have been speaking about man, man, man, all the evening and you have said nothing about woman. Now, where does woman come in?" "Madam," replied E. K. Coulter in a conciliating tone, "man embraces woman."

ROMANCE of the JUNGLE

Led by a dream to make a 9000-mile trip into the interior of Africa, where her finance had died, Miss McLeod is wooed and won by an agent of the British Government.

LOVE again came to Olive McLeod at the "Lake of the Dead." Nine thousand miles she had traveled from rural England to the interior of dark Africa to lay a stone on the unmarked grave of her fiancé, Capt. Boyd Alexander, a distinguished young British army officer and explorer. Braving the thousand perils of the jungle on her romantic journey, Miss McLeod was accompanied by P. Amartyr, the British King's Commissioner for the District of Oban, in Southern Nigeria; Mrs. Talbot and Charles Lind; Sir Reginald McLeod, Permanent Under-Secretary for Scotland, and having a distinguished ancestry, Mrs. Temple is noted for her intrepid spirit and athletic prowess. Through her mother, Lady Agnes Northcote, she is connected with the Stuyvesant and Hamilton Fish families of New York. The neighbors near her home, Vickers Park, near Maldenstone, in the County of Kent, England, tried hard to dissuade her when she announced her purpose to hazard the mission.

But the call of the vision was too strong! While still Miss McLeod she wrote of the traversing of unknown wastes of land and water, struggling hip deep through miles of swamps tangled with tropical verdure, pitching tents in the haunts of crocodiles, great snakes and leopards, paddling many days in open canoes on Lake Chad and of narrow escapes from death at the hands of blood-thirsty savages who had never seen white people.

Her companions described finding the grave of Capt. Alexander and of her placing a cross, a symbol of extraordinary faithfulness, on the mound so hidden with luxuriant growth that it took days to find it at the end of eight months' travel.

Here is the first telling of the adventures which followed.

All the time Mr. Temple had been most considerate. His care of Miss McLeod had been vigilant, saving her from the hardships that beset them whenever he could. Never by word or sign did he reveal the admiration that he felt for the blue-blooded Scotch girl. When it was proposed that exhortation work be taken up and Miss McLeod consented, the British official, already provoked by Cupid's darts, instantly changed his plans and announced his intention of turning a deaf ear to the call of duty that demanded his presence at his Government headquarters.

So they pushed on, overcoming incredible obstacles, till they came to the "Lake of Death," which to two of the party became a lake of happiness.

There on its strange shores was first felt by Miss McLeod the attraction that led her to become a bride. This spot in the Oban country is believed to be haunted by the natives who are deeply saturated with superstition. When the native bearers of the party discovered that the lake was to be visited, most of them deserted, and thus the task was made all the harder.

Not a human was encountered for many miles while nearing the dreaded spot. All the wild things must have learned that there was a sanctuary for about it animals and reptiles of all kinds were found in great numbers. Bushes many feet high guarded the shores, and the smooth surface of the water was disturbed only by the nervous leaping of thousands of queer fishes. An enormous python was seen winding its sinuous way through the jungle and huge crocodiles showed their ugly heads on every side. No native had ever touched the water, lest hunger and disease stalk through the land.

The plous pilgrimage, vivid with adventure and pathetic in its object, ended in lovers meeting, for Miss McLeod has recently become the bride of Mr. Temple.

No novel ever had a more remarkable plot. It was a dream that led the then Miss McLeod to penetrate unknown and savage regions. In her sleep there came a vision of Capt. Alexander pleading for a last farewell at the spot where he perished, murdered by treacherous natives on the shore of the mysterious Lake Chad. The daughter of the late Sir Reginald McLeod, Permanent Under-Secretary for Scotland, and having a distinguished ancestry, Mrs. Temple is noted for her intrepid spirit and athletic prowess. Through her mother, Lady Agnes Northcote, she is connected with the Stuyvesant and Hamilton Fish families of New York. (Love), whose symbol is a holy rock facing the entrance. Nearby the travelers found a second pool, in the center of which is a palm tree, near which the water are stationed a man and a girl and a boy who bear the flame of the goddess, as they were granted to the parents in direct answer to prayer. And during the long journey back to civilization Olive McLeod realized that she had begun to fall in love at the "Lake of Death" and that the full flower had bloomed at the "Lake of Life."

The Need for Loyalty.

NEVER condemn a friend without giving him a hearing. The gossip is one of the busiest little trouble-makers in the world. He or she, for there are both masculine and feminine gossips—is quite incapable of loyal friendship or affection, and finds a cynical delight in destroying such relationships for others.

There is an old Arabian proverb which runs something like this: "Thou shalt not listen to an unkind story so long as thou hast heels to flee or hands to cover thine ears." That, of course, is the ideal method of treating the gossip. But, like many other ideals, it is not always capable of practical realization, and unkind stories once heard have an unpleasant trick of remaining in the memory.

However, if you must hear them, and if you must remember them, at least be enough of a sportsman to give the other side a chance. In plain English, if you are told something that disturbs you about a friend put it up to him before you believe.

Old Fashion.

D. G. writes: "Is it proper for a young lady to take a gentleman's arm when they are out walking?"

It is rather unsophisticated, unless the path is slippery.

Making Conditions.

P. G. writes: "I have asked a young lady to marry me on condition that she stops wearing rouge. Am I within my rights to make this request?" I should think so. But you should be equally ready to give up any personal habit which may be disagreeable to the young lady.

Do Not Try.

H. N. writes: "I have called on a young lady regularly for some time, but recently introduced a friend of mine to her. He has been going to see her ever since, and I've received a letter asking me not to call any more. How shall I win the young lady back?" I'm sorry but I can't suggest any way since she so distinctly desires to avoid you.

Write to Him.

H. P. writes: "When a young lady is going away and wishes to correspond with her fiancé, should she ask him to write to her or should she write first?"

The natural thing is to write first, apprising him of her safe arrival.

You Must Talk.

F. M. writes: "I have been taking a young lady home from work once a week and have gone out with her twice. I am never very talkative when with her, for the simple reason I don't know what to speak of, and she always nagging me to say something. If I'd speak to her as I do to the boys, I'm afraid it would be too dry for her. Is it kindly asking that you suggest something?"

Try talking to her as you do to the boys. See how it works; perhaps she will like it.

A Rival.

F. E. writes: "I was to become engaged to a girl next month, but I find she has been going out with another young man the evenings I can't see her. She gave herself away intentionally and we quarreled. I don't think she did right and I think I should give her up. Don't you?"

Yes, but not because she accepted the other man's attentions, but because she concealed them.

Who Speaks First?

C. F. writes: "Two years ago I quarreled with the girl to whom I was paying attention. Each of us insulted the other. Now, if we make up, which should speak first?"

Since you admit there was some blame on your side, you'd better go to the young lady and apologize.

He May Be Busy.

R. B. writes: "A young man and I have been corresponding for some time, but he hasn't answered my last letter, mailed a fortnight ago. I know he isn't ill. What shall I do?"

You must simply wait.

Let Her Decide.

H. H. writes: "I accused a girl of sending me a comic valentine, and she became angry, refusing to speak to me again until I apologized. Later I found out my mistake and wrote her a letter of apology. I have not heard from her. What shall I do?"

You must wait; the next move is hers.

He Does Not Call.

M. C. writes: "A young man has been paying me attention for six months, but in all that time he has not been to see me. Should I write and ask him to come?"

No, but your mother may do so.

The Minimum.

E. W. writes: "Will you let me know if $15 a week is enough to get married on?"

With careful management two persons can get along with that income. But they would hardly be wise to marry on such a sum unless the near future held brighter prospects.

Just Foolishness.

D. Y. writes: "Will you please tell me if the letters 'v' or 't' placed on the back of an envelope, have any significance?"

Not so far as I know.

EIGHT TEAMS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE APPEAR STRONGER

—BAN JOHNSON.

President of the Junior Organization Thinks Browns Will Do Well.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Gadsdons! The Browns must look good!

Stovall's men, by kicking two dents in the managerial crown of Miller Huggins, induced Ban B. Johnson, the czar of the national game, to come here and entertain his St. Louis friends over the festive board Wednesday evening. It was the first time that Ban B. deigned to pay St. Louis a real sociable visit in some time, and the only explanation is that the Browns are "coming." Sure!

"The Browns are coming," said Huggins and his team should give a pitch this season," suggested Mr. Johnson between rounds Wednesday evening. "However, there are eight strengthened clubs in the American League this season. It looks like a big year—the biggest our big League ever has had."

Ban says he intends to enforce the rule prohibiting baseball players writing sport.

"If the players really wrote their stuff never would protest," declared the American League president. "But they don't. Ty Cobb, we all know, isn't a writer. So why should he impose on the fans? Baseball thrives on its integrity. Importers must be banned."

So Ban banned them.

Came to Watch Umpire. Mr. Johnson still is a great purveyor of palaver. Among other things Wednesday evening he said that he worked as a newspaper man for six years. "I had a bank account when I quit the newspaper business to enter baseball," said Mr. Johnson, "but I lost it the second year I was in baseball. However, baseball is a great game."

Mr. Johnson said he came here primarily to see Mr. Hildebrand, the new umpire, perform. He's well pleased with the newcomer's work.

Those talented performers of Connie Mack collared the Illinois Phils, 2-1, in the second game of the spring series in Quakerstown Wednesday. The game was won in the ninth, when Collins walked, stole and went to third on Killefer's wild throw. The great Baker beat the air, but Stuffy McInnis cracked a single that scored the Columbia Collegian, Curtain!

Outfielder Jimmy Johnson and Pitcher Phil Douglas of St. Louis have been released to the San Francisco (Cal.) Giants team. Douglas is tipped to return after more seasoning.

Cincinnati lost its first game in 18 played on the spring training trip Wednesday, when Louisville crippled Tinker's troupe, 5-4. Bob Becher threw his bat at Pitcher Sherwood Smith after the latter heaved two "bean" balls. They clinched, but no blows were exchanged.

Jimmy Lavender, paired with Roger Bresnahan, was pounded hard by the Kansas City Blues, but the Cubs managed to mop, 10-4, Wednesday. The complaint is made that the Blues' pitchers are not in shape.

MRS. BRITTON PROVES A MASCOT FOR CARDINALS

President B. B. Johnson of the American League and Mrs. H. H. Britton, owner of the Cardinals, saw Wednesday's game at Sportsman's Park. The American League head came down from Chicago to see George Stieglitz, his new umpire, in action. Mrs. Britton, because she was delayed in coming to St. Louis by the flood, saw her team play for the first time this season.

A Cardinal fan suggested that the lady owner of the Cardinals proved a good mascot for her team, while a Browns' roster suggested something about B. B.'s presence. Also the Browns' defeat.

JOE WOOD FANS TWELVE, ONLY MEN FACING HIM

Joe Wood pitched the last four innings for the Red Sox in the game against Louisville University. Jake Stahl's alma mater, Wednesday, and struck out the 12 batters who faced him. The Sox's championship won, 12-4. Ray Collins started the hitting, and allowed only one hit in the five innings he worked. Three thousand students and alumni greeted Stahl, who aided his team with three strong, besides pitching. Louisville's leading game.

WRAV'S COLUMN

Behold a Real Despot.

BAN BANQUET JOHNSON, the biggest thing in baseball—this goes two ways—is with us, reiterating that he is here just for the fun of the thing and for no specific purpose.

Ban withholds the sunshine of his presence for a year or two at a time. But the shadow of his frown has occasionally been felt by the local clubs. However, there is no apprehension to be felt now; for peace between the Browns and the System has been made and the echoes of the squeaks which Mr. Comiskey and company wanted to effect, whereby Owner R. L. Hedges was to be eliminated, have died away.

Perhaps Czar Ban would like to see others in control locally—"his said he would. But Mr. Hedges has apparently left no loophole in his armor through which he might be potted.

Wherein a Czar is Useful.

JOHNSON, like all the shrewd or smart things that have been driven home into him, and in spite of some human frailties involving banquets and speech making, is the real big map of baseball today. He set the pace which took baseball out of the dry-dog stage; he is responsible, directly or indirectly, for every steel grand stand and park improvement now in the game; he caused the death of rowdism and foul speech on the ball field; and he is the thinker who devises improvements in the sport. Ban is the real Czar of the game; and the game, such as it is, is better off for his domination.

Room for Improvement.

THERE are two lines along which Czar Ban can still further exert his influence for good:

1. Influencing club owners to put every convenience in their parks for the enlightenment and comfort of the fans.

2. Eliminating the blanket, the inequitable contract and other so-called "trust" features from the present system.

And Johnson is the boy to put the Ban on those features, if he wants to.

Who Carried the Observation Ward?

A WEARY-EYED person who had been sardined to exhaustion in one of Mr. McCulloch's limousines, frayed to fringing working past the edge at the main gate of Sportsman's Park and who finally stood up as one of the 25,000 persons who saw Sunday's local game, paused, in intervals between knocking the umpire, to look around the "house." Shifting from one tired foot to the other, he remarked to a neighbor, in the same ward:

"Now I know who put the fan in fanatics."

The Mack Idea.

The faculty of the new Connie Mack School of Baseball will be as follows: Prof. Daniel Murphy, Prof. Harry Davis, Prof. Ira Thomas.

Their function will be to catch, cajole, persuade, force and otherwise constrain young baseball talent to learn the game under the Mack guidance and be ready to step into the Athletics' ranks with the least cost and greatest efficiency to the club.

In other words, Mr. Mack is not content with the haphazard scheme of trying to buy ready-made baseball talent. He has found he has to remake most of it, in any case, so he concludes he'll start from the bottom—and save money by it.

His One "Loose" Experience.

IN the past Mack's club has been cheaply operated in the matter of expenditures for players. Perhaps no manager has ever developed so many stars for so little money. In only one case—for so little money—has he ever developed a star. In only one case—

BOXERS WELCOME POSTPONING OF COLISEUM BOUTS

Date of Harry Trendall-Jack Shelton Contest Is Set Back to April 29.

The bout between Harry Trendall and Jack Shelton, the local lightweights, scheduled at the Coliseum next Monday night, has been postponed to Wednesday, April 3. Secretary Walter Lavine of the St. Louis A. C. announces that the date has been set back to give the members of the club additional time in which to procure their tickets.

Both boxers welcome the postponement inasmuch as it affords them more time in which to prepare for the bout. Trendall has been idle a long time and believes that the two days' grace will better prepare him for the hard test he is sure to have in meeting his younger opponent.

Burns Is "All In."

Tommy Burns, who paraded as heavyweight champion of the world, until the title was taken from him by Jack Johnson, failed to impress in his attempt "comeback" in Chicago, Canada, Wednesday evening. He took on Arthur Pelkey, a New Englander, who has been the chopping block for a number of heavyweight aspirants, and was only able to get a draw.

Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champ, and Johnny Dundee, the New Yorker, have picked April 20 as the date for their championship contest in the Vernon arena. Both boxers are in Los Angeles and after signing articles announced that they would begin training immediately.

Although outweighed 20 pounds and handicapped by his smaller size, "Gunboat" Smith, the Californian, knocked out Fred McKay of Canada in the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout in New York Wednesday. A left hook to the jaw and a right cross to the same spot put McKay to sleep.

A Frenchman named Adrian Hogan lasted 11 rounds before Jeff Smith, an American, in a scheduled 20-round bout in Paris Wednesday. Smith didn't score a knockout, but had Hogan so hopelessly beaten that the Parisian's seconds leaped into the ring to have him additional punishment.

TIGER TEAM CRIPPLED FOR BOUT WITH BROWNS

If reports emanating from the South are true, the Detroit club will be badly crippled for the opening game with the Browns a week from today. Outfielder Vench sprained his ankle Wednesday in a game at Chattanooga. Dispatches say, and he will not show here. Powell is delegated to play the outfield, although Lefty Eigh, a local boy, still rides the bench. Del Gainer, the first-sacker, and Shanley, the ex-Browns, who received so many lavish boasts, also are on the shelf. This may necessitate Moriarty going to first, with Vitt on second and Powell in left field.

REGIMENT FIVES WILL SETTLE TITLE SATURDAY

The local regimental basketball supremacy will be decided Saturday night, when the Company and Company K teams of the First Regiment clash. The teams are tied for the leadership in the Inter-Company League of the regiment by virtue of the decisive victory gained by the K aggregation two weeks ago. The "A" team, however, turned up on the right side in the first conflict in the early part of the season, consequently the game Saturday will decide the championship.

SPORT CAPSULES.

Another team is needed to complete the makeup of the Mercantile League. For particulars address H. A. Davis, 501 Washington avenue.

Joseph Mayer of Brooklyn is out in front in the National Amateur 18.2 billiard league. He won from Charles F. Conklin of Chicago Wednesday, 400-355. Percy Collins of Chicago defeated Willie C. Dunaway of Portland, Ore., 400-283.

A meeting of the Trolley League magnates will be held April 11 to arrange for the opening of the season, April 20.

Yost to Direct Spring Practice. ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 3.—Twenty-five or more candidates for places on the University of Michigan's football team are expected to respond on April 15 to the call for spring training. Word has been received from Coach Yost that he will be in Ann Arbor to take charge of the squad. In previous years the coach has directed the spring work, as far as possible by correspondence.

Local Cyclists Will Put Team in New League

St. Louis Motordrome in Circuit With Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

St. Louis will be represented this summer in the American League of Motor Cycle Racing Clubs, an organization that was formed during the past week at Cleveland. The other cities holding franchises are Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Cincinnati, where motorcades such as the one at Grand and Meramec street are located.

The local season will open May 14 and the series of trout races will then be held to select riders to represent St. Louis during the summer campaign. An effort will be made to select 10 of the most daring riders to represent this city, and this squad will be subdivided into teams of five each. One of these teams will remain at home while the other will tour the circuit, furnishing continuous racing in the league.

Each meet will consist of seven races and at least three meets will be held a week. A system of scoring now is being worked out. Albert Stander, who showed here a year ago, probably will captain the local team. He's a Cleveland boy, but intends to make St. Louis his home this summer.

This Manager Can Release Club President If Pitching Is Bad

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 3.—Unusual complications are possible under the new ownership of the Grand Rapids Central League club. Both President W. E. Esick and Manager Ed Smith of the club are pitchers and expect to take their regular turns in the box. Some day the President may be yielding too many hits to suit the manager; then Smith will order Esick to the bench.

Both Esick and Esick, however, will be up to the point of the club. In the event of a manager's release, the president will back up the pitcher.

GUNBOAT SMITH MAKES QUICK WORK OF MCKAY

NEW YORK, April 3.—Gunboat Smith of California added Fred McKay of Winona, Canada, to his long list of ring victims at the Fairmont A. C. last night. Smith knocked out McKay early in the second round with a right cross to the point of the chin. McKay dropped on his back, laid there for the count of four, twisted on his side, arose to his hands and collapsed just at the fatal count of ten. Smith and Referee Joe assisted McKay to his seat.

The end came just when the big crowd of fatigued fans were beginning to hope that McKay would win the bout. McKay had showed so well in the opening chapter that there was reason to suppose that the winning career of Smith would be checked.

But the hope "died abhorably" for Smith, after being trounced for three minutes, completely changed the complexion of the match less than a minute after the second round started.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS TEAM IS COMING OVER

NEW YORK, April 3.—Robert D. Wren, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, announced that he had received confirmation from Australia of the acceptance by the Australian Association of the proposal by the Americans that the preliminary match for the Davis International cup be played in this country.

The Australian team, consisting of S. N. Doubt, A. D. Jones and Horace Rice, is expected to arrive in San Francisco April 24. The match, Mr. Wren said, would probably be played in New York early in June. The personnel of the American team has not been determined.

LARRY McLEAN IS DUE HERE TODAY; WILL BE NEEDED

Huggins Expects Former Red Catcher and Shortstop O'Leary to Bolster Team.

Unless he breaks another arm or a resolution en route, Larry McLean, the lengthy catcher obtained from Cincinnati, will reach St. Louis this afternoon and enter his appearance at the Cardinal clubhouse as one of Manager Huggins' reinforcements. Larry flashed his laconic message from over the Rhine Wednesday: "Leaving tonight."

Of course this may mean that Larry is starting for the Catalina Island and then again he may have Vandeventer avenue and Natural Bridge road as his destination. As Bert Williams would say, "Nobody knows," and in addition, very few care.

Manager Huggins was elated Thursday. He saw reasons Wednesday to rejoice in the work of Dan Griner, the big Tennessee blond, who propelled the pellet. Hug also was delighted with Charley O'Leary's debut.

O'Leary Proves a Lifesaver. The ex-Detroit, who made five hits and started a triple play the day that Hugh Jennings attached the bolt, looked like a springer Wednesday. It's now a certainty that Charley, unless the slight injury he suffered sliding into the plate upsets calculations, will remain at short until Arnold Hunter throws away his crutches five weeks hence. O'Leary knows how to play short. He still has the arm and "pop" and he upheld his reputation as a pinch hitter Wednesday by driving home a pair of runs in the sixth frame. He walked in the mad relay in round 10.

Manager Huggins believes his proteges finally have found their batting lamps. Koney and Evans are still a bit shy, but Morvey and Oakes are slugging the pill with a vengeance. When Koney and Steve round to the team will be seen at its best.

Hug evidently wasn't satisfied with Wheeler's work at shortstop, however, as he benched the juvenile and sent the aged Charley O'Leary to shortstop. If he isn't good, Herman Schaefer's old side kick isn't a pair of pants. O'Leary, however, is a pair of pants, too, showed that he is good enough to risk his leg by making any De Witt throw at short the diamond.

Manager Stovall is satisfied with what his team has shown and doesn't plan any changes in the next game at St. Louis. He said that he will stand pat on the present combination relative to assistance to each other. Johnston and Williams are going along satisfactorily in their respective fields.

Impure Blood Gets Good Bath

Wonderful How Quickly Your Entire System Awakens When the Blood is Cleansed.

If you are down with rheumatism, if you are tired, feel chilled, are choked with catarrh, have a cough, or your skin is pimply and irritated with rash, eczema, or any other blood disorder, just remember that almost all the ills of life come from impure blood. It is the highest achievement of a good, thorough cleansing, a bath, by using S. & S. There is no need for anyone to be despondent over the illness of blood impurities. No matter how badly they attack the system, or how unsightly becomes the skin, just remember there is one ingredient in S. & S. that so stimulates the cells, tissues throughout the body that each part selects its own essential nutrient from the blood.

This means that all decay, all breaking down of the tissues, is checked and repair work begins. S. & S. has such a specific influence on all local cells as to preserve their mutual welfare and afford proper relative assistance to each other. More attention is being given to constructive medicine than ever before and S. & S. is the highest achievement in this line. For many years people relied upon mercury, iodine, potassium, arsenic, phosphorus, and "dope" as remedies for blood sickness, but now the pure, vegetable S. & S. is their safeguard.

You can get S. & S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The great S. & S. Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by purchasing anyone's recommendation. Substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist, please address the Medical Dept. The Swift Specific Company, 121 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Stanford Coach Is Benedict. SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—George Presley, football and baseball coach of Stanford University and a graduate and former athletic star of the institution, and Miss Florence Block of this city were married here last night. The bride formerly was a Stanford student and is a member of the Alpha Theta Society.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives of publishers news gathered by the Associated Press.

Griner's Blunder Proves a Life Saver for Cardinals

Baumgardner Goes Straight Up When Stovall and Jack Johnston Miss Easy Chances to Retire the Side—Ensuing Rally Sees Browns' Defeat.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

A BAD bit of baselall, a blunder by P. Fitcher Dan Griner in permitting himself to be caught off first base, turned out to be a good play, the one that saved the way for the Cardinals' initial and 11-4 victory in the current series with the Browns Wednesday.

Had the Browns gone through with their part of this play and retired Griner—out of 100 times it would have been easy—it is likely that the score might have been reversed.

It happened like this: Starting the third inning the Cardinals were trailing, 3-0. Wingo, the first man up, popped to Fratt but Griner surprised himself and everyone else by snapping a single to left.

Then he ambled off first base. After taking the first pitch to Huggins, Agnew shot the ball to Stovall. Resulting that he was a "dead one," Griner resorted to the slim chance of trying for second. He didn't attempt to get back to first, as it meant certain death, but started the other way.

In the meantime, Stovall took Agnew's throw and believing that Griner would attempt to retreat to first, groped about for him, waiting to get the ball on the base runner. To his surprise, Griner had reached second in safety.

Another Chance Missed.

This misplay by Stovall was followed by a Highland fling by Jack Johnston to left field, when Huggins shot up a tall spiral. The leading citizen of Longview, Tex., darted in, out and before the ball had come down, circled around a few times. He got his hands on the ball, only to drop it, and Hug was credited with a double.

Here were two great opportunities to retire the side, 1-0. Stovall to whip the ball to second ahead of Griner and Johnston to spear Hug's lift. But instead of three being gone, only one was retired and two men on bases.

Then George Baumgardner proved that he is one of the best little in-and-outers in baseball by passing the next four batters. That shovled in three runs, left the bases still packed and only one down for Dwight Stone, the huge right-hander from John McCloskey's club, to face.

Baum simply lost everything he possessed, after Stovall and Johnston mused up things for him. In the opening rounds he had the Cards eating out of his hands.

New Men Get Worked.

After Baum had spilled the beans for the American Leaguers, Manager Stovall decided that it would be folly to waste men like Wellman, Hamilton or Allison in attempting a recovery of the game, so he started a parade with men like Stone, Napier, Schwenk, Brief, Mc-

Thursday's Schedule.

Fourth game of series, Robison Field, Vandeventer and Natural Bridge avenues, 3 p. m.

Probable batteries, Wellman and Alexander for Browns; Harmon and Wingo for Cardinals.

Umpires, Owens of the National League; Hildebrand of the American League.

Previous Results.

Sunday's game—Browns, 4-3; Cardinals, 3-2. Pitchers—Wellman and Baumgardner for Browns; Harmon and Saltee for Cardinals.

Tuesday's game—Browns, 8-11; Cardinals, 6-2. Pitchers—Hamilton and Allison for Browns; Burk, Hunt and Perritt for Cardinals.

Wednesday's game—Cardinals, 11-4; Browns, 4-12. Pitchers—Griner for Cardinals; Baumgardner, Stone, Napier and Schwenk for Browns.

Alister, Bonin and Walker showing in different roles.

They succeeded in clouting Griner for an even dozen hits and piling up four markers.

While the Browns were credited with doing a little "crossing" in winning the first two games, the Cards cut loose with some strategy in the third frolic. As some of the men had fattened their batting averages to any great extent in the first two games, they resorted to the old waiting game. It proved successful as witness the four passes off Baumgardner as well as two more off Stone in the same frame.

After this brand of play had put them well to the fore, they tried their batting lamps on the juveniles, Stone, Napier and Schwenk and profited by getting a lot of good hitting practice.

Jack Johnston pulled a Gus Williams in left field, but showed he is a game guy by continuing his good work with the club. Two more clean blows must be marked up to the credit of the Texan.

SPORT SALAD

By L.C. DAVIS.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

FAN sat in the upper deck. The hour was growing late; He shouted in his joy: "By heck, The Cards have struck their gait!"

Another fan was standing by. And shouted: "You are wrong! I know the Brownsies didn't try—They're stringing them along."

NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY! Ban Johnson was a visitor at the game, but the bad little Brownsies refused to play pretty for the gentleman.

Mrs. Britton occupied a box and cheered the Cards to victory. Looks like first division.

Don't take snap judgments on Ed Koney. The "Big Train" doesn't begin to draw down that $2500 until April 10.

Looks like a big year for the Phillies. They've played two full games and not a broken bone.

George Stovall played the first four innings without a putout. But they do. George was very much put out at the result of the game.

Looked funny to see "Tiger" O'Leary and "Rabbit" Huggins playing side by side.

"Gumbast" Smith seems to be drawing considerable water in the pugilistic seas.

Jack Johnston is getting some of the errors out of his system that he failed to uncock last season.

Browns Battling Well.

Even to defeat the Browns did not let up in their batting, and there's nothing so appetizing to the battler as the base knocks. Gus Williams, who appeared as though he had lost his batting ability in the first two games, came through with a ripping triple in the eighth frame.

There was another pleasing bit of work about the Browns' play—a feature that has been absent from so many Sportsman's Park teams. It was the throwing of the outfielders. Johnston, Shotton and Williams each took a turn at pegging out a fleeting Cardinal at the pan. Johnston flagged Koney, who tried to rally from second on a single to left. Williams cut down O'Leary, who attempted the same thing, while Shotton made the best throw to date in the series in snuffing Magoo in his dash for the plate after a long drive had been snared by Bert from Koney's log.

On this play Agnew is entitled to a bit of praise. Magoo runs unlike a convict kicked on an Oregon boat and when he slipped the ball to deep center, it seemed another run for the Cards. But Shotton snuffed the ball. Agnew had to step to the right of the plate to make the catch, but in so doing he was unable to get in. Brownie fans who have witnessed the weak throwing efforts of the team in the past were really amazed.

MAUPOME DROPS FROM TOP BERTH IN CUE LEAGUE

Mexican Loses Final Game in Kansas City and St. Louis Falls to Third Place.

In a poorly played match, which had as its only redeeming feature a thrilling finish, Pedro Maupome, the local representative, lost his match in National Three-Cushion League at Kansas City Wednesday evening, 50-40. Stanley Leschin won from the Mexican in 114 innings.

As a result of this defeat, the first in a three-game series, St. Louis dropped from first place to a position just behind Pittsburgh and Chicago, which now are tied for the lead. Maupome and his teammate, E. V. Calmer, are in Chicago Thursday for a three-game series with the leaders.

Leschin won the championship race for the current season.

Athletic Moguls in New York Get a Severe Shock

Attorney-General Rules That Police Officer Has Right to Interfere in Bouts.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 3.—A police officer has full power to prevent the continuance of a sparring exhibition if he believes it may result in injury to a participant or a violation of law, according to an opinion given to the New York State Athletic Commission by Attorney-General Carmody. The general power given the Athletic Commission, Mr. Carmody holds, cannot be considered so broad as to supersede the powers of a police officer.

The question was raised in Schenectady, where a Sergeant of Police entered the ring and stopped a boxing contest. The right of the police officer to interfere was questioned, because the Athletic Commission had made a rule giving the referee "the sole authority to stop a contest when it became one-sided or brutal," and providing that "no person other than the contestants and the referees shall during the progress of the contest enter the ring."

"We cannot understand," said the Athletic Commission in a letter to Mr. Carmody, "how it is possible for a police officer to substitute his judgment for the judgment of a licensed referee in stopping this contest."

"The granting of a license to hold a sparring exhibition," says Mr. Carmody's opinion, "does not create within the confines of the enclosure where such exhibition is held a freedom from proper police supervision. This opinion is based upon the broad ground that even if regulations prohibiting police interference were enacted they would be ineffective in law."

INTERNATIONAL TRACK MEET MAY FALL THROUGH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 13.—Storm clouds apparently are hovering over the international athletic meet to be staged at 707 Locust St. Mr. John Sheehan, president of the Cambridge and Oxford college track meet here next summer. If neither Harvard nor Yale will yield the point of date for the games and the English athletes of Cambridge and Oxford also display a similar stubbornness there will be no clash this summer.

In the first place the long delayed invitation to the British lads, drawn up over a month ago, is a jumble of contention between the Harvard and Yale track authorities. Petty disagreements over the letter have given both American universities opportunity for considerable discussion with the attendant result that the original invitation has withdrawn much tickles and much changes.

Both the American teams under on June 10. The Englishmen, in answer to the invitation, will probably request a later date, presumably July 5. The latter arrangement will not be considered for a moment by the Yanks, it is stated.

J. THORPE'S OFFENSE WAS PARDONABLE—SULLIVAN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—If James Thorpe, the Indian athlete, had made a clean breast of his case of professionalism to the Amateur Athletic Union, when signing as an entrant to the Olympic games last year, he might have been absolved of his transgression and been given a clear title to the laurels he achieved at Stockholm.

This statement was made at a banquet last night by James Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, who is here to assist in arrangements for the international games to be held in the Francisco during the Panama Exposition in 1915.

LIKES NAPS IN CHURCH BETTER THAN AT MOVIES

Brooklyn Runaway Boy, in Children's Court, Tells How Pipe Organ Lulled Him to Sleep.

NEW YORK, April 3.—"Movies? I guess not. I'd rather sleep in a church and hear the big organ before I go to sleep and after I wake than see a picture show. And it's better in the church, too. It's all quiet and comfortable there. But if you go to the movies you're 'most rushed to death'."

Eleven-year-old Edward Casey of Brooklyn so declared when arraigned in Children's Court charged with being ungovernable. His mother complained that he was away from home Friday and Saturday nights.

"Sure I ran away," the lad said. "But I don't see how I was had in doing that. I only wanted to sleep in my church and I went there. Say, it was fine! I heard vespers Friday and Saturday nights and mass Sunday morning. I never had such a good time before."

"But what did you get to eat?" he was asked.

"Nothing," the lad replied. "But say! You'd oughter seen me eat at dinner Sunday night when I got home."

THREE HOLD UP DRUGGIST

Ask Him to Open Store to Fill a Prescription.

Herman A. Gralike was held up in his drug store, 2263 South King's highway, Wednesday night, by three footpads.

He had closed his place when a knock at the door brought him out at 10:30 p. m. One of the three said he had a prescription which he wanted filled and Gralike admitted them.

When in the store one of the men

drew a pistol, forced the druggist to hold up his hands and then another of them robbed the register of $4.50. The third robber stood at the door. The robbers went north and disappeared. Mounted Patrolmen Dwyer and Gleason came at 11 o'clock and were told of the robbery.

OWNER KILLS DOG AT POLICE STATION AFTER IT BITES 2

Animal Was Believed to Have Had Rabies—Three Others Are Bitten.

A pointer dog, thought to have had rabies, was shot Wednesday afternoon by its owner, John Kronable of 2511 Alaska avenue, after it had bitten two persons. It first appeared at the Eads Bridge waiting room and snapped at several persons before it was chased away by a patrolman.

On Franklin avenue the animal bit Alfred Good, 4515 Easton avenue, in the right leg. Good was taken to the city dispensary and the dog was locked up in the basement of the Dayton Street Police Station.

William Stakely, negro janitor, was bitten in the right arm and left leg when he attempted to take the dog to the patrol house. Kronable was notified and he then killed the animal at the police station.

Boy of 5 Bitten in Leg. Sam Sorbets, 5-year-old son of Sam A. Sorbets of 1821 High street, was bitten in the left leg Tuesday night by a dog owned by Kasarial Harris of 708 O'Fallon street, while he was playing in front of the Harris home. Harris was served with a police court summons for keeping a vicious dog.

Frank Kadlets, 10 years old, of 1509 Pickers street, was bitten by a dog he was trying to shield from an attack by other boys. The wound was cauterized at the city hospital.

Damian Kratzer, a dairy employe, was bitten in the right arm by a dog while he was making collections at a South St. Louis residence. He went to the city hospital.

James McMullen of Chaffee, Mo., brought his 15-year-old son, Leller, to the city hospital Wednesday to be treated for a dog bite received four days ago. Examination by a bacteriologist showed that the dog had rabies.

Society

THE subscription ball which will be given Monday, April 14, for the benefit of the Free Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Infirmary, will be quite one of the most interesting balls of the year.

Unlike the custom at most affairs of the kind, nothing will be sold except the tickets. There will be a supper all evening and at intervals the dancing on the floor will cease for a few moments while some of St. Louis, clever amateur dancers and singers "do a turn."

Miss Ann Drew and Dwight Davis will do their famous Hesitation waltz; Dewey Hickey of Hot Time Minstrel fame is down for a song and dance; Mrs. Willard W. Bartlett, Mrs. Irene C. Dobyne and the Shepherdess Chorus—one of the prettiest features of the Morning Choral Club concert last week, will be repeated; and Miss Anita Gaudy and Miss Olga Bates, each a beautiful dancer, will contribute to the program.

A Hesitation waltz party will be given by a number of the best dancers of the fashionable set for Adeline Genee after the performance of "La Danse," in which she will appear Thursday evening at the Odeon.

The affair will be at Miss Alice Martin's studio and will be quite interesting. Among the box holders for "La Danse" are: Misses William K. Bixby, James F. How, Paul Brown, Louis Marion McCall, E. H. Semple, A. H. Edwards, Clay E. Jordan, M. Hayward Post, Carl Layties, Hudson Bridge, George S. McPherson, William Barnell, D. S. Stanley, J. C. January, James D. Livingston, Herbert W. Wolff, N. A. McMillan, Dr. Hugo Summa, Mr. Walter C. Taylor, Mr. E. H. Laidley.

Miss Sarah Tower of 27 Vandeventer place and her niece, Miss Marguerite Tower, have returned from a trip to Havana and the Florida resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. William Maffitt of 4409 West Pine boulevard have returned from California, where they have been traveling for the past month.

Mrs. Festus J. Wade of Lindell boulevard has returned from French Lick Springs, where she spent a fortnight.

Miss Helen Rylie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Rylie of Toronto, Ontario, and T. Henry Garrett Jr. of 29 Kingsbury place were married Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in Rosedale. The Rev. Mr. Shields of the Jarvis Street Baptist Church officiated.

The bridegroom's parents and his sister, Miss Caroline Garrett, went to Toronto for the nuptials. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Garrett will reside in St. Louis.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Bradley of 2223 Montgomery street departed Tuesday for a tour of California. They will spend a month visiting places of interest, and return by way of the Grand Canyon in Arizona.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Margaret Blacksted and Lieut. Leonard Craig Sparks of the Fourth Field Artillery, U. S. A., has been set for Tuesday, May 20. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Blacksted of 1246 Amberst place.

The ballroom of the Liederkreis Club is well adapted for such a ball, because it is the largest in St. Louis and the stage, too, where the specialty dances will be, is unusually large. Mrs. Edward L. Proctorius, who has been chosen by the board of the infirmary to arrange the ball, will have an auxiliary committee of men, all good dancers and beaux in society, and an entertainment committee of girls who are the belles of the past winter.

They are Misses Jane Taylor, Virginia Elliot, Sadie Cox, Virginia Foster, Zoe Schotten, Emilie Cale, Gladys and Maudie Cupples Seudder, Ann Drew, Sue Lovett, Virginia Longstreet, Lorna Doone Carr, Onida O'Hara, Marie Busch, Frances Garsneau, Elton McLeod, Dorothy Warner and Dorothy Farish.

Pennsylvania Lines Train Service Will be fully restored, commencing Friday, April 4.

Friday—A Notable Offering of

Handsome Silk-Lined Suits

Two of the styles at $13.50.

Seldom, indeed, have you seen such charming styles and splendid qualities as we offer in this sale tomorrow, at

INCLUDED in this offer are many beautiful Suits from our higher-priced lines, which are reduced because the range of sizes is not complete—in addition, there are many new Suits which our New York buyers were able to secure at a decided concession on account of the flood conditions throughout the country—and which we are therefore in position to offer you at much less than their actual value.

The Styles—

Beautiful Russian and Balkan Blouses, as well as cutaway and shirred back effects—the productions of the foremost Suit specialists in the East, and tailored in the finest style throughout.

The Fabrics—

Fine poplins, Shepherd checks, serges and manish worsteds in all the new Spring colorings—as fine an assortment as you have seen this season—and in every size for ladies, misses and junior.

See these Suits tomorrow—compare them in style and quality with any shown elsewhere at similar prices—and you will have convincing proof of the value-giving supremacy of this great Specialty Store.

Dress Special

AFTERNOON and Street Frocks of serge and silk—many formerly selling at $14.75—Friday, in two lots at

$5.00 and $9.90

THESE Dresses are shown in fine serges, Shepherd checks, eponges—as well as messaline, colienne and charmeuse silk—there are not many of any one style, but the collection embraces many beautiful effects—and if you find a dress to fit you in the lot, you are sure of an exceptional bargain.

Coat Special

HANDSOME new Spring Coats—actual $9.90 and $12.75 values—will go on sale tomorrow, Friday, at

THIS is a lot of attractive Coats that are reduced simply because the range of sizes has become broken—they come in 3/4 and 5/8 lengths—in fine serges, novelty weaves and check fabrics—some of the best Coats that sold up to $12.75, are in this lot tomorrow at $7.50.

Summer Dresses—$12.75, $14.75 and $19.75

Exquisite styles in lingerie fabrics, such as voile, crepe and marquisettes—also many new and beautiful new models in linen dresses that have just been received.

Two-Hour Sale of Cravenettes

FROM 8:30 to 10:30 tomorrow we will place on sale Slip-on Raincoats in tan and grays—special at

FROM 8:30 to 10:30 we will also offer $5.00 Mercerized Silk Raincoats, in black, tan and gray—at

Three Remarkable Waist Offerings

$1.25 Waists . . . 90c

PLEASE styles in voiles and batiste—some in Bulgarian colors, others trimmed in dainty colors and white—many with pretty yoke effects and trimmed in laces, embroideries and buttons.

Silk Shirts . . . $2.98

THESE are made of heavy tub silks in plain as well as fancy stripe effects—a variety of new and attractive styles that are sure to please you—the price we name represents a decided saving.

Odds and ends in the Waists of voiles and batistes—beautifully trimmed—made in high neck and low neck styles with long and three-quarter sleeves—waists left from lines that heretofore sold at considerably higher prices will be closed out tomorrow in one lot at.

Special Sale of Trimmed Hats

In the Prettiest Spring Styles—tomorrow at

Two hundred attractive new Hats—in all the latest shapes, including the new mushroom, tams and poke bonnets—beautifully trimmed with ostrich plumes, ribbons and flowers—will be the attraction for Friday, at

COME here tomorrow morning and look at our window—the 20 beautiful Hats, selected at random, shown there will give you some hint of the pleasing styles and value included in this special offering.

ASK anyone who has secured one of the celebrated Kline Hats at this price—and she will tell you that she looked almost everywhere—but only at Kline's could she find such style and quality at $4.95.
